U.S. ready to fly in marines

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States will fly Marines to Thailand to underscore President Ford's demand for the return of a U.S. cargo ship seized by Cambodia, Pentagon sources said today.

However, in Bangkok, Prime Minister Kukrit Pramoj said Thailand will not permit the United States to use Thai air bases for military action against Cambodia, including any armed attempt to secure the return of the American vessel.

Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger, on a visit to Missouri, said the United States will "wait a bit to see what diplomacy can achieve" to gain the return of the merchant ship. He said the United States would take measures necessary to gain the ship's release.

He would not comment on the report that Marines will be sent, saying it was a "delicate situation at the moment." He also said he did not want to "comment on what might be on the mindsof the Cambodians."

"There is no question that we have to recover that ship and its crew," Javits said. "I'm confident the President feels the same way . . . (But) I would fully expect the President would consult with Congress before taking any military action."

A group of about 150 Marines will be airlifted from the U.S. naval base at Subic Bay in the Philippines to the U.S. air base at Utapo in southern Thailand, the Pentagon sources said. They said another 1,000 Marines have been alerted on Okinawa for possible movement later.

Verbal orders which went out from the Pentagon this morning apparently were changed later to scale down the immediate size of the Marines movement.

At an impromptu news conference in Bangkok, Kikrit said in response to a question about the seizure of the American ship: "We will not allow the American troops to use our soil for any war. We have enough trouble with Asian neighbors now."

He apparently referred to the 27,000 troops the United States currently has stationed in Thailand. Kukrit could not be reached for comment afterward about the reported airlift of Marines.

As Ford called a meeting of the National Security Council to discuss the ship's capture, there was no immediate word about what use would be made of the Marines once they reached Thailand.

But the move apparently was designed to back up the President's warning of possible "serious consequences" if the new Cambodian government does not release the merchant ship Mayaguez and its 39-man crew.

Asked about the report that Marines will go to Thailand, White House Press Secretary Ron Nessen said, "We cannot discuss any possible military movements." Asked if Ford was considering a military response, Nessen replied: "I can't talk about that right now."

Nessen said he knew nothing to confirm a report that some of the crewmen on the Mayaguez might have been wounded when the ship was fired on during the capture. He said he also could not confirm whether the crew had been taken off the vessel.

The White House had said earlier that the Mayaguez, seized Monday about eight miles from a small rock island, Pulo Wai, in the Gulf of Thailand, had been moved to the island of Koh Tang, some 30 miles from the Cambodian coast, under escort of two Cambodian gunboats.

Nessen said the State Department was trying to determine whether Koh Tang, also a small island, was among those whose ownership is being contested by Cambodia and Vietnam. The State Department has said Poulo Wai is one of the contested islands.

The United States was working through intermediary countries to obtain release of the merchant ship, but also was preparing a number of military options.

If diplomacy fails, Ford will face the difficult decision of whether to use military force to rescue the ship Mayaguez and its 39-man crew. Adding to that difficulty, some administration sources said, was the question of whether the United States could afford the appearance of weakness in Southeast Asia in the wake of the collapse of American-backed governments in Cambodia and South Vietnam.

White House counsel Philip W. Buchen said that neither of two laws restricting presidential use of military force would prevent Ford from calling on U.S. armed forces in this instance. Warships from the U.S. 7th Fleet reportedly have started moving toward the Gulf of Thailand where the unarmed Mayaguez was fired upon and seized by a Cambodian gunboat Monday.

But administration sources said Ford hopes to recover the ship through diplomatic channels, reportedly using China and other countries as intermediaries. The United States has no direct ties with Cambodia's new Khmer Rouge government.

Bragg City man seriously hurt

Two persons were seriously injured and three received minor injuries in three area traffic accidents Monday, the highway patrol announced today.

Terry Wilkerson, 24, of Bragg City suffered serious injuries when the car he was driving struck the back of a school bus owned by the Pemiscot County Special School District at 7:30 a.m.

The accident occurred on Highway 84 six miles west of Hayti while the bus was stopped on the road taking on passengers. Fifteen passengers were on the bus, but none received injuries.

Wilkerson was taken to Pemiscot County Memorial Hospital at Hayti, then transferred to Baptist Memorial Hospital at Memphis.

A Cooter woman was seriously injured in a one-car accident at 10:50 a.m. at the Highway 164 interchange with Interstate 55 about one mile north of Steele.

The accident occurred when a car driven by Vera Martin, 65, of Cooter turned onto an exit ramp from I-55, ran a stop sign on Highway 164 and struck a guard rail.

Injured was a passenber, Gladis Patterson, 58 of Cooter. She was taken to Chickasawba Hospital at Blytheville, Ark.

Three person received minor injuries in a two-car accident at 1:15 p.m. Monday on a gravel road about four mile northwest of Dexter.

The accident occurred when a westbound car driven by Judy Duley, 26, of Dexter and an eastbound car driven by David Hutchcraft, 19, of Dexter collided at the top of a hill.

Both drivers received minor injuries, as did a passenger in the Duley car, Matthew Duley, 4. All three were taken to Dexter Memorial Hospital.

SHA may seek funds

The Sikeston Housing Authority may decide this week whether or not to apply for funding under the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development Section 8 Housing Assistance Payments Program.

The program would allow private rental units to be rented to low-income families with federal assistance to help meet the rent payments.

HUD will fund only 110 unites in the Bootheel.

Bill Hanna, director of the housing authority, said it is his opinion that the program would not be feasible for Sikeston. Rent schedules for Scott County allowed by HUD are an average for the entire county and may be too low to work in Sikeston, he said.

HUD will allow rent payment of $109 for a two-bedroom home including all utilities, Hanna said. He added that he doesn't think many two-bedroom houses are available for that price in Sikeston.

Meat prices up

By JACKIE SCHOENEMAN

Although April's food basket jumped 13 cents, most food items dropped or increased by one cent, indicating a kind of stability for grocery shoppers. However, the overall gain could be attributed to higher prices at the meat counter.

The cost of 42 selected items to consumers averaged $31.54 at the end of April, compared to $31.41 for the same items in March.

Food basket coasts were determined after a survey of six grocery stores -- Sikeston IGA, Safeway, Liberty, S & S Discount, Marks Food Mart and Bakett's Big Star -- the same stores used in previous surveys.

The price per pound of round steak, with bone, zoomed upward 26 cents, while a pound of ground beef rose 15 cents. Sliced bologna, in an eight-ounce package, rose a nickel, while breakfast fans may have to curb the amount of bacon they eat with their eggs. It cost 13 cents more per pound than the previous month.

Warm weather foods, such as lettuce, tomatoes and instant tea, reported small increases. Tomatoes rose a nickel per pound, a three-ounce jar of instant tea climbed four cents an a head of lettuce cost one cent more. However, stalk celery climbed eight cents.

Food items showing the most significant drop in price were a pound of soft margarine, 15 cents; five pounds of sugar, 27 cents; a 16-ounce box of crackers, nine cents; and a 12-ounce box of corn flakes, down eight cents.

Ten food items reported no price change.

For a table of prices of all 42 items, turn to page three.

Senate gets last of money bills

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — The Missouri House sent the last of its money bills making up the state's $2.3 billion budget to the Senate Monday, but gutted another measure which would have created a commission to set pay for judges, legislators and elected statewide officials.

In the Senate, preliminary approval was given to a bill making more billboards illegal, but requriring the state to compensate owners of signs which must come down.

The proposed measure to set up a commission to review salaries was withdrawn by its sponsor, Majority Floor Leader Kenneth Rothman of Clayton, who said because of strong opposition to the measure "there was no need to waste any more time on it."

The bill would have called for the people to vote on a proposed Constitutional Amendment to allow such a commission to review salaries every two years and make changes as it saw fit.

The changes would have gone in effect unless one-third of the members in each House rejected them. The measure earlier was amended to require a majority to defeat the pay raise and Rothman said that amendment was a factor which prompted him to remove his bill.

The proposal came in the wake of a controversial legislative pay hike from $8,400 a year to $12,400 annually given narrow approval by the House earlier, but now stalled in a Senate committee.

Rothman said his commission proposal was "a way to end the hypocrisy of people saying they had to vote against a legislative pay increase, but praying that it would pass."

The remaining five appropriations bills approved by the House cover operations of the elective offices and most agencies of the executive branch, mental health programs, welfare and corrections, state colleges and universities and the legislature.

The Senate Appropriations Committee already has begun work on House approved bills to fund public schools, the public debt and the Revenue Department. The Senate panel is expected to make many changes in the House bills, leaving the differences to be worked out most likely in a House-Senate conference committee.

Blackman given venue change

BENTON — Robert Blackman, 22, of Haywood City, charged with first degree murder of Julia Lee Thompson, a 70-year-old Haywood City woman, on Nov. 28, 1974, has been granted a change of venue to Mississippi County.

Judge Marshall Craig granted the change of venue Thursday in Scott County Circuit Court. Trial had been set, after several delays, for May 15 in Scott County Circuit Court.

The sheriff's department conducted the initial investigation and reported that the victim was apparently beaten to death in her home with what appeared to be a board with a nail in one end. She had also been stabbed in the stomach.

Dexter man's truck stolen

BLOOMFIELD — Clayton Gaines of Dexter reported to the Stoddard County Sheriff's Department early today that his 1972 pickup truck had been stolen.

The theft apparently occurred sometime Monday night.

The Stoddard County Sheriff's Department also received a report early today that the fire tower, located near Bloomfield, had been broken into and several act of vandalism committed. This break-in is believed to have occurred Monday night also.

Money stolen from purse

Brenda Lou James, Route Four, told police Monday that someone took two $100 bills from her purse sometime between 8 a.m and 5 p.m. Saturday while she was working at Wal-Mart Discount City in the Midtowner Villge Shopping Center.

She told police the only time the purse had been out of sight during the past few days was while she was at work.

Police said an inventory at C. H. Yanson, jeweler, 134 E. Front St., indicated that only the six cigarette lighters valued at $53.70 were taken in the burglary, which occurred early Monday.

A MATTER OF CHARACTER

Let us suppose that in 1965 North Vietnam had had Robert McNamara as its Secretary of Defense. Mr. McNamara would no doubt have called in his stable of experts and would have posed them this question: If the United States enters the war with all of its military hardware and technological efficiency, and sends perhaps 500,000 men to Vietnam, what chance do we North Vietnamese have to survive with our primitive economy and only 14 million people? The answer, of course, would have come back loud and clear: No chance at all! If the United States does intervene in this manner, we must call off our war against the South.

But no McNamara sat in Hanoi. Rather, it was the brilliant General Nguyen Vo Giap, victor over the French at Dien Bien Phu. Instead of giving way, he and his colleagues determined to balance the weight of U.S. military might with the intensity of their revolutionary willpower. As the leaders of a tough, Spartan, superbly disciplined, totalitarian society, they could literally force the soldiers to be heroic, chaining them when necessary to their tanks and machine guns — like the German army which took on half the world and fought to the end against hopeless odds so long as the political leadership remained intact, or like the French Foreign Legion whose soldiers owed allegiance only to their organization.

North Vietnam is a modern David which has now triumphed over a spiritually wasted Goliath. Her leaders are men of iron resolution and passionate conviction to their cause. They could have been defeated, but only by other men of equal resolution and equal conviction in the rightness of defeating them. This characteristic was and is lacking in the leadership of the United States.

The U.S. today is a nation without passion and without conviction. Our record is one of an affluent, civilized power which doesn't like to use power and which does not understand its role in history. We have not learned that power is not a privilege but only an obligation.

Many young men enter our armed forces today, not primarily out of pride or patriotism, but for money and financial security. If the time comes, such men may have difficulty in acting heroically.

We have been defeated in Vietnam by a fourth-rate military power. If we analyze the causes carefully, we may find that the defeat is far more serious than we first imagined.

WHITE COLLAR UNIONIZATION

Surpassing all previous records, the National Labor Relations Board conducted a total of 1,281 collective bargaining elections among white-collar workers in 1974.

Union won 727 of the elections to represent 22,790 employes and lost 556 elections in which another 29,825 workers were eligible to vote, according to "White Collar Report," a weekly publication of the Bureau of National Affairs, Inc., a private organization which since 1933 has served as an informational link between government and the public.

Previous record totals for number of union victories and newly represented employes were set in 1972, when unions won 574 elections involving 21,780 workers.

At the same time, reports the Conference Board, the rise in union membership has not kept pace with the growth in nonagricultural employment.

While total national union membership increased by 17.2 per cent between 1962 and 1972, it slipped from 29.8 per cent to 26.7 per cent of the total nonagricultural work force.

The manufacturing sector of the economy has been, and continues to be, the foundation of the American labor movement. Employment in this sector, however, has remained relatively stable and union representation has actually declined slightly.

It is among government workers and women that organized labor has made the most sizable gains in recent years. Government employes accounted for one-third of the rise in union rolls between 1962 and 1972, and at the end of that 10-year period comprised 20 per cent of all national union and employe association membership.

The proportion of women among organized workers had grown to 25 per cent as of 1972, reflecting both the increasing participation of women in the labor force and the growth of unionization among white-collar workers.

A NEEDED MAN

Missouri and the United States are fortunate that Senator Stuart Symington (D-Mo.) still has 18 months to serve before he retires from the office he has filled with excellence since 1952.

Symington's experience is unmatched in the Senate of the United States.

— He became manager during the great depression of a struggling industry, Emerson Electric at St. Louis, and made it a success.

— He took his expertise to Washington, D. C., at the request of fellow Missourian, President Harry S. Truman, and served in many tough assignments, climaxing his Executive Branch career as the first man appointed to head the then new Department of the Air Force.

— He took this valuable experience from private business and the federal Executive Branch to the Senate when Missourians elected him to that office in 1952.

Government leaders listened to Senator Symington from his first days in that exclusive body, since he already was a man of towering stature on the national scene.

That stature has increased yearly since then — and with good reason which is baldly apparent today.

— He was one of the first leaders to warn the nation that it faced grave economic danger becaue of its unfavorable trade balance. Simply, that meant more dollars were going overseas than were coming back to the U.S.

— While his record, both as a man and government leader, proved beyond doubt his commitment to a militarily strong United States, he was one of the first to investigate and warn of the danger of certain secret commitments made to foreign governments, and to question maintaining certain foreign military bases which were no longer needed. His basic argument was to the point: The excess military bases detracted from this country's military strength and the money and manpower should be channeled to make muscle instead of fat; that the secret commitments overextended what this country could reasonably accomplish — plus the danger of plunging us into an unwanted conflict which could cost lives and treasure.

— He warned early in the U.S. Vienam involvewment that this country should either throw a Sunday punch at North Vietnam or immediately seek a political solution to the conflict.

Citizens of this area know of his help to individuals, to farmers and his vision as to how the Harry S. Truman Dam & Reservoir could enrich the Golden Valley. Evidence that he was correct is already showing in recent population figures which report that the seven Truman Dam counties have had a population growth of seven percent since 1970. That growth reversed steady population loss since 1890. And the basic tourist industry the project will create when completed is still ahead.

People of Missouri understand why the loss of his wife, Evelyn, strongly influenced Symington's decision not to run for the Senate for a fifth term. Their's was a love and closeness which is realized all too seldom in real life.

Even so, we submit that on the record, personal and public, we hate to see Senator Stuart Symington bow out of public life. Men of his experience, foresight, stature and character are too few. And if this nation ever needed such men it needs them now and for the foreseeable future.

If it is possible to draft him for another term we so move.

If not, we join a host of Missourians in thanking him for his years of tremendous service to this area, the state, nation and world.

And we wish him the best of everything he so richly merits during his retirement years.

FUTILE GESTURE

When the Phase 4 wage and price control program was announced President Nixon said, "I hope that the American people will ... not be deluded by the idea that we can produce lowpriced food out of acts of Congress or executive orders." Never were truer words spoken, and they apply not just to wage and price controls but in other areas where, by fiat, government attempts to smother the inflationary consequences of excessive federal spending.

One of these is the effort to shield low-paid workers against inflation by escalating the pay levels prescribed by the federal minimum wage law. Debate over an increase in the minimum wage follows a definite pattern. On one side are the "liberals" who always try to do what the President has said cannot be done – alter natural economic laws by acts of Congress. In the case of the minimum wage, a congressional delusion persists that the poor can be protected against inflation if the law requires employers to pay a sufficiently high wage. On the other hand, those who recognize the limitations of the lawmaking process have repeatedly endeavored to limit the more extravagant minimum wage increase proposals by pointing out their inflationary nature and the fact that an unreasonably high minimum wage level causes unemployment among young workers in low-paying jobs.

In the same manner that laws setting artificially-low food prices can empty grocery store shelves, so will artificially high minimum wages dry up job opportunities for millions of young and unskilled workers. Hard experience with inflation shows the futility of laws that try to defy natural forces in the marketplace having to do with wages, prices and jobs.

SOVIET ARMY EXPANSION DURING DETENTE

As the Middle East situation remains tense, Soviet Defense Minister, Marshal Antonovich Grechko, has issued an order to the Soviet armed forces calling for constant combat readiness and maintenance "at the proper level." Speaking in reference to foreign defense budgets, Grechko clearly indicated that further expansion of the Soviet armed forces will be continued. Marshal Grechko's words have been carefully noted by all concerned.

Commenting from Bonn, Armin Zimmerman, Inspector-General of the West German Bundeswehr (armed forces), referred to Grechko's orders as further "sabre rattling," and made some interesting statements which reinforce those reported earlier in the Intelligence Digest. Zimmerman has now revealed that since 1969, the Warsaw Pact forces have been increasing their strength continuously and during that period, Warsaw Pact troop strength has increased by 1,000,000 and that 15 new divisions have been created. He stated that Soviet bloc tank strength during the past six years has increased by 10,000, which now brought the total number of Soviet and satellite armies' tank strength to the total number of 71,000 -- an amazing figure in comparison to WorldWar II tank strength.

Another West German source (Flugwehr and Technik) indicates that the number of Soviet airborne divisions have been increased from seven to 12, which now form the nucleus of the Soviet strategic reaction forces. All 12 Russian airborne divisions are stationed west of the Urals. Each airborne division has approximately 7,000 officers and men organized into two or three paratroop regiments, with three infantry battalions of 450 men each, two artillery battalions with three firing batteries consisting of six 85 mm. field guns each and rocket launchers, one parachute mortar battalion and one antitank battalion, plus engineers, signal detachments and combat service support troops. Logistical support poses one of the main problems of these units. Several of these Russian divisions have been trained for contingency missions in the Middle East, and two of the airborne divisions are reportedly stationed in Hungary for possible intervention in Yugoslavia.

With Warsaw Pact maneuvers again under way, West German military leaders are justly concerned over multiple indications of potential Soviet aggression against NATO. In the past six years, the number of Soviet artillery pieces in East Germany has almost doubled. In recent weeks, Warsaw Pact forces have been equipped with a new NBC (nuclear, biological, chemical) gas mask. Equipment and training for night combat has been intensified by the Warsaw Pact armies. Soviet tactical nuclear warheads and delivery means have increased. The Soviet Strategic Rocket Army, commanded by General Vladimir Tolubko, is now deploying new ICBM systems. Commenting on the present system in Europe, the West German newspaper Generalanzeiger has reported: "On our continient, thetwo biggest military alliances on earth -- the NATO and the Warsaw Pact-- are directly confronting each other. Armed forces and equipment are highly concentrated in a narrow space.

Negotiations and agreements have changed nothing so far. On the contrary, all signs show that the armaments race is continuing. The East is sailing at full blast."

Since the American people and especially Congress seem to be concentrated on the events in Indo-China, we have published the above information from Intelligence Digest to get our attention back tothe real military problems we face

CONSTRUCTIVE APPROACH NECESSARY

A new element in the realm of policy making seems destined to become a permanent part of the health care system of the United States. Members of the lay public -- the consumers of medical services -- are demanding and getting seats on governing boards of medical societies and health insurance organizations. They are participating in the formulation of policies pertaining to availability, cost and quality of medical care,and they are taking part in decisions influencing the operation of insurance and prepaid health care programs which, to a large extent, now help the American people meet the costs of medical services.

In the case of the medical profession and allied health care financing organizations, the quality, understanding and expertise of consumer representation must be of a much higher order than that which has often been exhibited by the consumerist movement. The adversary approach, dominated by distrust and faultfinding, has no place here. It could do irreparable harm by disrupting the U.S. medical system, which provides the highest quality health care in the world, and by obstructing the innovative financing institutions that are constantly reducing the financial burden of making that care available to the American people.

The president of the nation's largest prepaid medical care financing organization has said that his group neither wants to ignore the growing pressure for consumer representation in its affairs, nor desires to "give the store to anybody who wants it." Continuing, he said if his organization "... should leap headlong into public domination of plan boards, with the implied promise that things will suddenly be different, we would be misleading the public. Considerable unrest would follow, when rates continue to increase -- as they will -- and certain claims continue to be denied - as they will." The organization which this authority represents provides prepaid health care protection for some 80 million people enrolled in 70 plans throughout the United States. The U.S. medical system is pluralistic in its approach to solving problems, innovative and responsive to the needs of the American people. Constructive consumer representation in proper balance can encourage the development of new ideas and approaches to better health care. But, to do so, it must build on the great strengths and the proven mechanisms and procedures which have elevated U.S. medicine to the high plateau which it already occupies.

By JACK ANDERSON
with Les Whitten

WASHINGTON--The Defense Department has bought $1.1 million worth of tomatoes, strawberries and cantaloupes from a firm whose top salesman is Mafia godfather Carlos Marcello.

The produce was approved by still another federal agency, the Agriculture Department, which dutifully inspected the Mafia man's tomatoes and pronounced them suitable for government soups and salads.

Then the Cosa Nostra comestibles were distributed to Army, Navy and Air Force installations in Alabama, Florida, Georgia, Louisiana, Mississippi and Panama.

At least two civilian agencies, the Public Health Service and Veterans Administration, also get tomatoes from Marcello through the Defense Department.

Although responsible government officials privately insist they don't like doing business with a Mafia generalissimo, they are obliged by law to buy their tomatoes from the lowest bidder. Not unless the tomatoes fail to pass muster with the Agriculture Department can they be rejected.

The Justice Department has brought pressure on government agencies not to do business with mob-tainted companies. But Mafia lawyers have sued to stop this discrimination.

Marcello is identified in secret government files as "the top ranking member of the Mafia in (the) New Orleans area." He "gained (his) reputation through terroristic activities," the files also reveal.

The public record of his syndicate connections dates back to the Kefauver hearings of the 1950s. He figured again in the "Joe Valachi" hearings of the 1960s and the House crime hearings of the 1970s.

The House hearings indicated he was a $1,600-a-month "salesman" for the PelicaN Tomato Company of New Orleans. He is reputed to be an effective salesman, whose offers are seldom refused. He started out in 1962-63 by helping to wangle a tough contract with several supermarkets.

For the record, Marcello has said only that he is "a public relations man for Pelican Tomato and also adviser to Pelican Tomato." He has sworn under oath he has never been in the Mafia.

Ostensibly, he works for Joseph Matassa, the company secretary-treasurer, with whom Marcello was indicted and acquitted on a jury-tampering trial in 1965.

"He is always a gentleman," said Matassa of Marcello. The tomato tycoon denied any knowledge of Marcello's Mafia ties. "We never do anything with anybody but good people." he said. We were unable to reach Marcello.

MORE ON MARTIN: President Ford stubbornly insisted last week that American Ambassador Graham Martin did a "good job" of directing the evacuation of South Vietnam.

"I never had much faith in Monday-morning quarterbacks or grandstand quarterbacks," said the President. "I would rather put faith in the man who carried out a very successful evacuation.

Apparently, this barb was aimed at us. We began reporting last month how Martin was botching the evacuation. Because there is a lesson to be learned from every disaster, it may be worthwhile to review the facts.

Actually, the story began before Martin arrived in Saigon in July, 1973. We reported on Feb. 1, 1973, that the Joint Chiefs expected the ceasefire to break down and the Communists to win control of all Vietnam.

"Secretly, the Joint Chiefs don't believe President Thieu can survive..." we wrote. "(They) have grave doubts about the South Vietnamese Army's ability to repel an offensive without massive American air and artillery support."

Martin emphatically disagreed with this assessment, and he never lost faith in President Thieu until Saigon began collapsing around his ears.

Even the rout of Thieu's armies in the north didn't shake Martin. He insisted that the South Vietnamese Army would dig in, hold the line and then throw the Communists back.

When the Saigon defenses also began to collapse, his advisers wanted to encourage the formation of a government that could negotiate a truce. This would permit the United States to bow out of Vietnam, they contended, with some degree of honor.

But the militant Martin called instead for President Thieu to form a stronger war cabinet and to stiffen the resistance against the Hanoi forces.

Even after Thieu fled the country with a parting blast at the United States, Martin thought there was time to negotiate an honorable settlement. He delayed the evacuation, therefore, to avoid throwing Saigon into chaos.

The Air Force officer in charge of the evacuation effort in Saigon, Brig. Gen. Richard Baughn, kept pressing to move Americans and their Vietnamese supporters out. In desperation, he began flying out Vietnamese employes without Martin's authorization.

The ambassador angrily demanded General Baughn's dismissal right in the middle of the evacuation preparations. A successor was rushed to Saigon to take over. But in the end, tens of thousands of Vietnamese, who had worked for the Americans and could have been saved, were left behind.

I AM A CAMERA

By ART BUCHWALD

"What are you doing?" I asked it.

"I'm waiting for something to happen. You know, a demonstration or a riot or any kind of a scene to put on the nightly news. You don't have anything provocative to say, do you?"

"I don't think so."

"That's too bad. If you were against the Vietnamese refugees I'd take a picture of you," it said.

"No," I said. "I'm for accepting the Vietnamese refugees."

"Well, that's not news. I need conflict. I have to seek that which is unique."

"You mean if you were in a town and everybody was for accepting the Vietnamese refugees except one man--you would interview that one man?"

"Sure."

"But if you put him on the news most people around the country would think that everyone in the town was against the Vietnamese refugees."

"I'm just a camera. I do what I'm told. I wish something would happen; my tubes are getting itchy."

"What happens if nothing happens?"

"Something "has" to happen. Otherwise there wouldn't be any news. If nothing happens I can always tape another unemployed auto worker."

"That's not really news, is it?"

"It is on a dull day. I'm sure not going to tape an "employed" auto worker."

"I should hope not. It's too bad the college kids are so quiet. They always made good news spots."

"Don't I know it. All you needed was about five kids taking over a dean's office and it looked like 35,000. The kids knew it, too. They used to wait until I arrived before they took over the building. But there is an awful lot of apathy on campuses these days. I don't think I've taken any good college pictures since the streaking fad last year, and then most of them wound up on the cutting-room floor."

"Are you kidding? I can hardly keep my eye open when he's talking. Every TV camera will do anything to avoid covering the White House."

"How do you get out of it?"

"I put a patch over my zoom lens just before they send me there."

"I imagine Congress isn't any better."

"It's worse. You can work your butt off all day long and never get on the air. I really miss the Watergate trial. It was really fun taking shots of all those people arriving with their lawyers and walking in and out of the courtroom."

"Who is your favorite subject?" I asked.

"Henry Kissinger," the camera replied. "He's always tense when he comes out of a meeting and his face flushes a lot when someone asks a tough question. I get a chance to use a lot of red color when Henry looks at me."

"Is that Henry? I thought it was my set."

"Oh ho. Here comes a screaming mob of anti-abortion people ready to tear Washington apart."

"What mob? There are only three of them."

"If I do a close shot, nobody will know the difference."

— He was one of the first leaders to warn the nation that it faced grave economic danger becaue of its unfavorable trade balance. Simply, that meant more dollars were going overseas than were coming back to the U.S.

— While his record, both as a man and government leader, proved beyond doubt his commitment to a militarily strong United States, he was one of the first to investigate and warn of the danger of certain secret commitments made to foreign governments, and to question maintaining certain foreign military bases which were no longer needed. His basic argument was to the point: The excess military bases detracted from this country's military strength and the money and manpower should be channeled to make muscle instead of fat; that the secret commitments overextended what this country could reasonably accomplish — plus the danger of plunging us into an unwanted conflict which could cost lives and treasure.

— He warned early in the U.S. Vienam involvewment that this country should either throw a Sunday punch at North Vietnam or immediately seek a political solution to the conflict.

Citizens of this area know of his help to individuals, to farmers and his vision as to how the Harry S. Truman Dam & Reservoir could enrich the Golden Valley. Evidence that he was correct is already showing in recent population figures which report that the seven Truman Dam counties have had a population growth of seven percent since 1970. That growth reversed steady population loss since 1890. And the basic tourist industry the project will create when completed is still ahead.

People of Missouri understand why the loss of his wife, Evelyn, strongly influenced Symington's decision not to run for the Senate for a fifth term. Their's was a love and closeness which is realized all too seldom in real life.

Even so, we submit that on the record, personal and public, we hate to see Senator Stuart Symington bow out of public life. Men of his experience, foresight, stature and character are too few. And if this nation ever needed such men it needs them now and for the foreseeable future.

If it is possible to draft him for another term we so move.

If not, we join a host of Missourians in thanking him for his years of tremendous service to this area, the state, nation and world.

And we wish him the best of everything he so richly merits during his retirement years.

FUTILE GESTURE

When the Phase 4 wage and price control program was announced President Nixon said, "I hope that the American people will ... not be deluded by the idea that we can produce lowpriced food out of acts of Congress or executive orders." Never were truer words spoken, and they apply not just to wage and price controls but in other areas where, by fiat, government attempts to smother the inflationary consequences of excessive federal spending.

One of these is the effort to shield low-paid workers against inflation by escalating the pay levels prescribed by the federal minimum wage law. Debate over an increase in the minimum wage follows a definite pattern. On one side are the "liberals" who always try to do what the President has said cannot be done -- alter natural economic laws by acts of Congress. In the case of the minimum wage, a congressional delusion persists that the poor can be protected against inflation if the law requires employers to pay a sufficiently high wage. On the other hand, those who recognize the limitations of the lawmaking process have repeatedly endeavored to limit the more extravagant minimum wage increase proposals by pointing out their inflationary nature and the fact that an unreasonably high minimum wage level causes unemployment among young workers in low-paying jobs.

In the same manner that laws setting artificially-low food prices can empty grocery store shelves, so will artificially high minimum wages dry up job opportunities for millions of young and unskilled workers. Hard experience with inflation shows the futility of laws that try to defy natural forces in the marketplace having to do with wages, prices and jobs.

SOVIET ARMY EXPANSION DURING DETENTE

As the Middle East situation remains tense, Soviet Defense Minister, Marshal Antonovich Grechko, has issued an order to the Soviet armed forces calling for constant combat readiness and maintenance "at the proper level." Speaking in reference to foreign defense budgets, Grechko clearly indicated that further expansion of the Soviet armed forces will be continued. Marshal Grechko's words have been carefully noted by all concerned.

Commenting from Bonn, Armin Zimmerman, Inspector-General of the West German Bundeswehr (armed forces), referred to Grechko's orders as further "sabre rattling," and madesomeinterestingstatements which reinforce those reported earlier in the Intelligence Digest. Zimmerman has now revealed that since 1969, the Warsaw Pact forces have been increasing their strength continuously and during that period, Warsaw Pact troop strength has increased by 1,000,000 and that 15 new divisions have been created. He stated that Soviet bloc tank strength during the past six years has increased by 10,000, which now brought the total number of Soviet and satellite armies' tank strength to the total number of 71,000 -- an amazing figure in comparison to WorldWar II tank strength.

Another West German source (Flugwehr and Technik) indicates that the number of Soviet airborne divisions have been increased from seven to 12, which now form the nucleus of the Soviet strategic reaction forces. All 12 Russian airborne divisions are stationed west of the Urals. Each airborne division has approximately 7,000 officers and men organized into two or three paratroop regiments, with three infantry battalions of 450 men each, two artillery battalions with three firing batteries consisting of six 85 mm. field guns each and rocket launchers, one parachute mortar battalion and one antitank battalion, plus engineers, signal detachments and combat service support troops. Logistical support poses one of the main problems of these units. Several of these Russian divisions have been trained for contingency missions in the Middle East, and two of the airborne divisions are reportedly stationed in Hungary for possible intervention in Yugoslavia.

With Warsaw Pact maneuvers again under way, West German military leaders are justly concerned over multiple indications of potential Soviet aggression against NATO. In the past six years, the number of Soviet artillery pieces in East Germany has almost doubled. In recent weeks, Warsaw Pact forces have been equipped with a new NBC (nuclear, biological, chemical) gas mask. Equipment and training for night combat has been intensified by the Warsaw Pact armies. Soviet tactical nuclear warheads and delivery means have increased. The Soviet Strategic Rocket Army, commanded by General Vladimir Tolubko, is now deploying new ICBM systems. Commenting on the present system in Europe, the West German newspaper Generalanzeiger has reported: "On our continient, thetwo biggest military alliances on earth -- the NATO and the Warsaw Pact-- are directly confronting each other. Armed forces and equipment are highly concentrated in a narrow space.

Negotiations and agreements have changed nothing so far. On the contrary, all signs show that the armaments race is continuing. The East is sailing at full blast."

Since the American people and especially Congress seem to be concentrated on the events in Indo-China, we have published the above information from Intelligence Digest to get our attention back tothe real military problems we face

A new element in the realm of policy making seems destined to become a permanent part of the health care system of the United States. Members of the lay public -- the consumers of medical services -- are demanding and getting seats on governing boards of medical societies and health insurance organizations. They are participating in the formulation of policies pertaining to availability, cost and quality of medical care,and they are taking part in decisions influencing the operation of insurance and prepaid health care programs which, to a large extent, now help the American people meet the costs of medical services.

In the case of the medical profession and allied health care financing organizations, the quality, understanding and expertise of consumer representation must be of a much higher order than that which has often been exhibited by the consumerist movement. The adversary approach, dominated by distrust and faultfinding, has no place here. It could do irreparable harm by disrupting the U.S. medical system, which provides the highest quality health care in the world, and by obstructing the innovative financing institutions that are constantly reducing the financial burden of making that care available to the American people.

The president of the nation's largest prepaid medical care financing organization has said that his group neither wants to ignore the growing pressure for consumer representation in its affairs, nor desires to "give the store to anybody who wants it." Continuing, he said if his organization "... should leap headlong into public domination of plan boards, with the implied promise that things will suddenly be different, we would be misleading the public. Considerable unrest would follow, when rates continue to increase - - as they will -- and certain claims continue to be denied - as they will." The organization which this authority represents provides prepaid health care protection for some 80 million people enrolled in 70 plans throughout the United States. The U.S. medical system is pluralistic in its approach to solving problems, innovative and responsive to the needs of the American people. Constructive consumer representation in proper balance can encourage the development of new ideas and approaches to better health care. But, to do so, it must build on the great strengths and the proven mechanisms and procedures which have elevated U.S. medicine to the high plateau which it already occupies.

By JACK ANDERSON
with Les Whitten

WASHINGTON--The Defense Department has bought $1.1 million worth of tomatoes, strawberries and cantaloupes from a firm whose top salesman is Mafia godfather Carlos Marcello.

The produce was approved by still another federal agency, the Agriculture Department, which dutifully inspected the Mafia man's tomatoes and pronounced them suitable for government soups and salads.

Then the Cosa Nostra comestibles were distributed to Army, Navy and Air Force installations in Alabama, Florida, Georgia, Louisiana, Mississippi and Panama.

At least two civilian agencies, the Public Health Service and Veterans Administration, also get tomatoes from Marcello through the Defense Department.

Although responsible government officials privately insist they don't like doing business with a Mafia generalissimo, they are obliged by law to buy their tomatoes from the lowest bidder. Not unless the tomatoes fail to pass muster with the Agriculture Department can they be rejected.

The Justice Department has brought pressure on government agencies not to do business with mob-tainted companies. But Mafia lawyers have sued to stop this discrimination.

Marcello is identified in secret government files as "the top ranking member of the Mafia in (the) New Orleans area." He "gained (his) reputation through terroristic activities," the files also reveal.

The public record of his syndicate connections dates back to the Kefauver hearings of the 1950s. He figured again in the "Joe Valachi" hearings of the 1960s and the House crime hearings of the 1970s.

The House hearings indicated he was a $1,600-a-month "salesman" for the PelicaN Tomato Company of New Orleans. He is reputed to be an effective salesman, whose offers are seldom refused. He started out in 1962-63 by helping to wangle a tough contract with several supermarkets.

For the record, Marcello has said only that he is "a public relations man for Pelican Tomato and also adviser to Pelican Tomato." He has sworn under oath he has never been in the Mafia.

Ostensibly, he works for Joseph Matassa, the company secretary-treasurer, with whom Marcello was indicted and acquitted on a jury-tampering trial in 1965.

"He is always a gentleman," said Matassa of Marcello. The tomato tycoon denied any knowledge of Marcello's Mafia ties. "We never do anything with anybody but good people." he said. We were unable to reach Marcello.

MORE ON MARTIN: President Ford stubbornly insisted last week that American Ambassador Graham Martin did a "good job" of directing the evacuation of South Vietnam.

"I never had much faith in Monday-morning quarterbacks or grandstand quarterbacks," said the President. "I would rather put faith in the man who carried out a very successful evacuation.

Apparently, this barb was aimed at us. We began reporting last month how Martin was botching the evacuation. Because there is a lesson to be learned from every disaster, it may be worthwhile to review the facts.

Actually, the story began before Martin arrived in Saigon in July, 1973. We reported on Feb. 1, 1973, that the Joint Chiefs expected the ceasefire to break down and the Communists to win control of all Vietnam.

"Secretly, the Joint Chiefs don't believe President Thieu can survive..." we wrote. "(They) have grave doubts about the South Vietnamese Army's ability to repel an offensive without massive American air and artillery support."

Martin emphatically disagreed with this assessment, and he never lost faith in President Thieu until Saigon began collapsing around his ears.

Even the rout of Thieu's armies in the north didn't shake Martin. He insisted that the South Vietnamese Army would dig in, hold the line and then throw the Communists back.

When the Saigon defenses also began to collapse, his advisers wanted to encourage the formation of a government that could negotiate a truce. This would permit the United States to bow out of Vietnam, they contended, with some degree of honor.

But the militant Martin called instead for President Thieu to form a stronger war cabinet and to stiffen the resistance against the Hanoi forces.

Even after Thieu fled the country with a parting blast at the United States, Martin thought there was time to negotiate an honorable settlement. He delayed the evacuation, therefore, to avoid throwing Saigon into chaos.

The Air Force officer in charge of the evacuation effort in Saigon, Brig. Gen. Richard Baughn, kept pressing to move Americans and their Vietnamese supporters out. In desperation, he began flying out Vietnamese employes without Martin's authorization.

The ambassador angrily demanded General Baughn's dismissal right in the middle of the evacuation preparations. A successor was rushed to Saigon to take over. But in the end, tens of thousands of Vietnamese, who had worked for the Americans and could have been saved, were left behind.

I AM A CAMERA
By ART BUCHWALD

"What are you doing?" I asked it.

"I'm waiting for something to happen. You know, a demonstration or a riot or any kind of a scene to put on the nightly news. You don't have anything provocative to say, do you?"

"I don't think so."

"That's too bad. If you were against the Vietnamese refugees I'd take a picture of you," it said.

"No," I said. "I'm for accepting the Vietnamese refugees."

"Well, that's not news. I need conflict. I have to seek that which is unique."

"You mean if you were in a town and everybody was for accepting the Vietnamese refugees except one man--you would interview that one man?"

"Sure."

"But if you put him on the news most people around the country would think that everyone in the town was against the Vietnamese refugees."

"I'm just a camera. I do what I'm told. I wish something would happen; my tubes are getting itchy."

"What happens if nothing happens?"

"Something "has" to happen. Otherwise there wouldn't be any news. If nothing happens I can always tape another unemployed auto worker."

"That's not really news, is it?"

"It is on a dull day. I'm sure not going to tape an "employed" auto worker."

"I should hope not. It's too bad the college kids are so quiet. They always made good news spots."

"Don't I know it. All you needed was about five kids taking over a dean's office and it looked like 35,000. The kids knew it, too. They used to wait until I arrived before they took over the building. But there is an awful lot of apathy on campuses these days. I don't think I've taken any good college pictures since the streaking fad last year, and then most of them wound up on the cutting-room floor."

"Are you kidding? I can hardly keep my eye open when he's talking. Every TV camera will do anything to avoid covering the White House."

"How do you get out of it?"

"I put a patch over my zoom lens just before they send me there."

"I imagine Congress isn't any better."

"It's worse. You can work your butt off all day long and never get on the air. I really miss the Watergate trial. It was really fun taking shots of all those people arriving with their lawyers and walking in and out of the courtroom."

"Who is your favorite subject?" I asked.

"Henry Kissinger," the camera replied. "He's always tense when he comes out of a meeting and his face flushes a lot when someone asks a tough question. I get a chance to use a lot of red color when Henry looks at me."

"Is that Henry? I thought it was my set."

"Oh ho. Here comes a screaming mob of anti-abortion people ready to tear Washington apart."

"What mob? There are only three of them."

"If I do a close shot, nobody will know the difference."

Tri-County Association names winner of bicycle

Bill Huff, 274 N. Ranney, recently won a bicycle in a raffle sponsored by the Tri-County Mental Health Association. The bicycle was donated by Mrs. Lucille Huff of East Prairie.

The raffle netted $543. Rick Darnall, 19, son of Mrs. Jolene Tyrone, 409 Edmondson Drive, and the late Harry Robert Darnall, sold the most raffle tickets as a token of appreciation for help he received from the association.

He has been accepted for physical therapy at Southern Illinois University at Carbondale, Ill., where he hopes to do volunteer and part-time work with Synargy, a drug rehabilitation unit.

The association works toward the improved care and treatment of the mentally ill andthe handicapped, improved methods in research, prevention, diagnosis and treatment of mentall illness and handicaps and promotion of mental health. A long range goal is a mental health facility for a three county area.

The association is an organization of volunteers from Stoddard, Mississippi and Scott Counties, and governed by a board of directors. Officers are Margaret Rowe of Charleston, president, the Rev. Lee Erwin of East Prairie, vice president, Dosha Hitt of Dexter, secretary and Edith Dumay, 604 N. Kingshighway, Sikeston, treasurer.

Ann Landers
Expert advice pays off

Dear Ann Landers: You often advise emotionally--troubled readers to seek the help of a psychiatrist or a professional counselor. I wonder how many people have failed to heed that advice because they fear the expenses. Please tell them that most communities now offer professional counseling with payment schedules based on personal income.

Not long ago my wife and I were on the verge of a divorce although we loved each other deeply. Professional counseling for only $3 a week helped us solve our differences and save our marriage. (As our financial status improved, our fees were increased to $20 a week, but it was worth every penny.)

I hope you will print this letter so others who need counseling won't let the fear of financial burdens prevent them from straightening out their lives.--Making It In California

Dear Cal.: Thank you for providing me with another opportunity to suggest to my readers that they contact the National Association for Mental Health, The County Mental Health Societies, Family Service Assn., The YMCA, Catholic Charities, Salvation Army, and an organization called Recovery, Inc., which costs nothing and has chapters all over the U.S.A. Just look in your phone book, folks. I'm tired of hearing, "I can't afford $45 an hour for a psychiatrist." Very few people can--but there are plenty of alternatives.

When it comes to sex therapy clinics, that's another story. Stay out of the yellow pages. I wouldn't put my stamp of approval on more than 50 of the four or five thousand clinics now operating around the country. Choose a therapy clinic connected with a hospital or a university. Most of the others are phony.

Dear Ann Landers: I'm a 65-year-old woman whose hair is naturally grey. It started to turn when I was in my mid-forties and I hated it. With the help of commercial compounds I have kept my hair a chestnut brown--the color it was most of my life.

I'm sick and tired of people coming up to me and saying, "Why don't you let your hair go grey? I would be just beautiful!" I could scream. Maybe THEY think grey hair is beautiful, but I think it would make me look 15 years older. (Some of the women who have suggested this are tinting their own hair!)

I have changed beauty shops three times in the last two years because the hairdressers have been after me to let my hair go "natural." I can't stand the nagging.

I tried twice to let the grey grow out and after three weeks I despised the way I looked. I felt like an old lady.

What I want to know is this: Am I being silly and stubborn? What should I say to people who try to tell me what to do with my hair?--Oregon Brownette

Dear Brownie: It's YOUR hair. The person to please is yourself. And this is what you should tell people if they come on too strong.

Dear Ann Landers: I don't want an essay on morality. Just a simple yes or no will do.

If a woman finds out her husband is having an affair with a so-called good friend of hers, does she have the right to go out and do the same?--Sauce For The Goose

Dear Goose: What do you mean by "right"? Who gave HIM the right? Getting even is a poor motive for doing anything. The answer is no.

A no-nonsense approach to how to deal with life's most difficult and most rewarding arrangement. Ann Landers's booklet, "Marriage--What to Expect," will prepare you for better or for worse. Food

Salad doubles as dessert

There are lots of "plain Jane" main dishes that have the flavor only long, slow-cooking can produce. But these do tend to appear at the table looking less than glamorous. However, a gorgeous salad dessert can top off a dinner offering such hearty fare and take it from the strictly practical into the something special class. Snow Top Ruby Ring combines the sparkle of fruit cocktail and gelatin with a flavorful cream cheese layer for elegance. And most of the sweetness comes from the fruit since the fruit syrup is used in the gelatin.

SNOW TOP RUBY RING

1 can (17-ounce) fruit cocktail
2 packages, (3 ounces, each) lemon gelatin
3 Tbsp. lemon juice
2 packages (3 ounces, each) cream cheese, softened
2 cups fresh cranberries
1 small orange
1 cup sugar
2 Tbsp. Port wine
Salad greens

Drain fruit cocktail, reserving ½ cup syrup. Dissolve one package gelatin in one cup boiling water; add reserved fruit syrup. Blend lemon juice into cream cheese until smooth and soft. Gradually add cheese to gelatin until smooth. Cool until thickened; fold in drained fruit cocktail. Pour into eight-inch ring mold or six-cup mold. Chill until firm. Meanwhile, grind cranberries and quartered orange together; stir in sugar. Dissolve second package in one cup boiling water; stir in wine. When cool, blend in cranberry relish. Pour over firm cheese layer. Chill until set. Unmold by dipping in warm water a few seconds. Invert onto serving plate. Garnish with salad greens. Serves eight.

Grocery prices up throughout Missouri

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — Food prices zoomed upward on all 21 food items surveyed by the Missouri Farm Bureau this week at selected supermarkets across the state.

The average prices went up in price from a high of 24 cents per pound for t-bond steak, raising it to $2.08 a pound, to a low of three cents more for a one and one half pound loaf of bread, bringing that price to 63 cents.

The price hikes were attributed to a jump in wholesale food prices.

Beef price hikes led the way with sirloin steak up 23 cents a pound to $$1.89, rib steak up 15 cents a pound to $1.68, round steak up 15 cents to $1.61, ground beef up nine cents to 82 cent a pound, arm roast up 12 cents to $1.23 and blade roast up eight cents to 93 cents a pound.

Center cut pork chops showed the sharpest pork increase, rising 12 cents a pound to $1.63.

Close behind at a 10 cent per pound boost was blade roast at $1.05, followed by a nine cent increase in pork steak, bringing it to $1.11 per pound.

Ham increased by five cents a pound for shank portion to 85 cents per pound and for butt portion by four cents a pound to 93 cents.

Chickens, both cut up and whole, went up four cents a pound to 51 cents for whole and 58 cents for cut up.

Extra large and large eggs also showed increases of four cents per dozen, bringing the large to 70 cents a dozen and the small to 66 cents a dozen. At 59 cents a dozen, medium eggs were three cents higher than last week.

Whole milk now cost eight cents more at $1.50 a gallon and two per cent milk is two cents more expensive at $1.35 a gallon.

Otherwise, a 10 pound bag of red potatoes jumped 12 cents to $1.05 and sugar went up 6 cents to $3.64 for a 10 pound bag.

Men have used artificial devices to keep cool for centuries. Ancient Egyptians soaked the walls of their homes with water, while Roman slaves brought down mountain snow to pack in the hollow outer walls of their masters' villas.

At Wit's End
Prayer supports dress

I go to the movies and watch television to be entertained, not to sit there and fall apart.

Sitting through the Towering Inferno the other night, I found myself slouching in my seat, my legs hopelessy entangled and locked with one another, beads of sweat gathering on my forehead. Unable to stand looking at the screen, I buried my head in my husband's sweater.

Finally, I opened one eye and whispered to him, "Is it over.. Has Faye Dunaway fallen out of her dress yet.."

There is something about a dress slit to the waist supported only by gravity and a good posture that makes me tense. When Rita Moreno ran to the podium for her Tony in her divided to the waist halter, I nearly fainted, and when Adrienne Barbeau slouches on the Carson show, I instinctively throw my body across the screen when there is no one in the room but the dog.

I guess it all goes back to my mid-Victorian upbringing where we were taught, "What good is a dress if you can't play the violin in it."

In shopping for a long dress the other week, however, I couldn't resist taking a halter dress to the fitting room with me.

"What holds it up.." I asked the salesperson.

"Gravity and prayer... not necessariy in that order."

"I see. The earth revolves and draws all the bodies in its sphere toward the center of the earth at the rate of 32 feet per second and the dress stays up."

"That's easy for you to say," she said. "Personally, I'm holding out for prayer."

"What do you think.." I asked, standing erect, not daring to breathe.

"I think the dress should sue you for non-support."

"Maybe I should go back to the keyhole neckline," I observed.

"I personally think you should seal off the entire chest," she said.

"Look, if Faye Dunaway can last through a cocktail party, a major fire, 35 explosions, smoke, water and a ride on a see-through elevator with a broken cable, I can handle this dress."

"I'll throw in an asbeatos bra," she said tiredly.

Tri-County Association names winner of bicycle

Bill Huff, 274 N. Ranney, recently won a bicycle in a raffle sponsored by the Tri-County Mental Health Association. The bicycle was donated by Mrs. Lucille Huff of East Prairie.

The raffle netted $543. Rick Darnall, 19, son of Mrs. Jolene Tyrone, 409 Edmondson Drive, and the late Harry Robert Darnall, sold the most raffle tickets as a token of appreciation for help he received from the association.

He has been accepted for physical therapy at Southern Illinois University at Carbondale, Ill., where he hopes to do volunteer and part-time work with Synargy, a drug rehabilitation unit.

The association works toward the improved care and treatment of the mentally ill andthe handicapped, improved methods in research, prevention, diagnosis and treatment of mentall illness and handicaps and promotion of mental health. A long range goal is a mental health facility for a three county area.

The association is an organization of volunteers from Stoddard, Mississippi and Scott Counties, and governed by a board of directors. Officers are Margaret Rowe of Charleston, president, the Rev. Lee Erwin of East Prairie, vice president, Dosha Hitt of Dexter, secretary and Edith Dumay, 604 N. Kingshighway, Sikeston, treasurer.

Ann Landers
Expert advice pays off

Dear Ann Landers: You often advise emotionally-troubled readers to seek the help of a psychiatrist or a professional counselor. I wonder how many people have failed to heed that advice because they fear the expenses. Please tell them that most communities now offer professional counseling with payment schedules based on personal income.

Not long ago my wife and I were on the verge of a divorce although we loved each other deeply. Professional counseling for only $3 a week helped us solve our differences and save our marriage. (As our financial status improved, our fees were increased to $20 a week, but it was worth every penny.)

I hope you will print this letter so others who need counseling won't let the fear of financial burdens prevent them from straightening out their lives.--Making It In California

Dear Cal.: Thank you for providing me with another opportunity to suggest to my readers that they contact the National Association for Mental Health, The County Mental Health Societies, Family Service Assn., The YMCA, Catholic Charities, Salvation Army, and an organization called Recovery, Inc., which costs nothing and has chapters all over the U.S.A. Just look in your phone book, folks. I'm tired of hearing, "I can't afford $45 an hour for a psychiatrist." Very few people can--but there are plenty of alternatives.

When it comes to sex therapy clinics, that's another story. Stay out of the yellow pages. I wouldn't put my stamp of approval on more than 50 of the four or five thousand clinics now operating around the country. Choose a therapy clinic connected with a hospital or a university. Most of the others are phony.

Dear Ann Landers: I'm a 65-year-old woman whose hair is naturally grey. It started to turn when I was in my mid-forties and I hated it. With the help of commercial compounds I have kept my hair a chestnut brown--the color it was most of my life.

I'm sick and tired of people coming up to me and saying, "Why don't you let your hair go grey? I would be just beautiful!" I could scream. Maybe THEY think grey hair is beautiful, but I think it would make me look 15 years older. (Some of the women who have suggested this are tinting their own hair!)

I have changed beauty shops three times in the last two years because the hairdressers have been after me to let my hair go "natural." I can't stand the nagging.

I tried twice to let the grey grow out and after three weeks I despised the way I looked. I felt like an old lady.

What I want to know is this: Am I being silly and stubborn? What should I say to people who try to tell me what to do with my hair?--Oregon Brownette

Dear Brownie: It's YOUR hair. The person to please is yourself. And this is what you should tell people if they come on too strong.

Dear Ann Landers: I don't want an essay on morality. Just a simple yes or no will do.

If a woman finds out her husband is having an affair with a so-called good friend of hers, does she have the right to go out and do the same?--Sauce For The Goose

Dear Goose: What do you mean by "right"? Who gave HIM the right? Getting even is a poor motive for doing anything. The answer is no.

A no-nonsense approach to how to deal with life's most difficult and most rewarding arrangement. Ann Landers's booklet, "Marriage--What to Expect," will prepare you for better or for worse. Send your request to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 1400, Elgin, Illinois 60120, enclosing 50 cents in coin and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Food
Salad doubles as dessert

There are lots of "plain Jane" main dishes that have the flavor only long, slow-cooking can produce. But these do tend to appear at the table looking less than glamorous. However, a gorgeous salad dessert can top off a dinner offering such hearty fare and take it from the strictly practical into the something special class. Snow Top Ruby Ring combines the sparkle of fruit cocktail and gelatin with a flavorful cream cheese layer for elegance. And most of the sweetness comes from the fruit since the fruit syrup is used in the gelatin.

SNOW TOP RUBY RING

1 can (17-ounce) fruit cocktail
2 packages, (3 ounces, each) lemon gelatin
3 Tbsp. lemon juice
2 packages (3 ounces, each) cream cheese, softened
2 cups fresh cranberries
1 small orange
1 cup sugar
2 Tbsp. Port wine
Salad greens

Drain fruit cocktail, reserving ½ cup syrup. Dissolve one package gelatin in one cup boiling water; add reserved fruit syrup. Blend lemon juice into cream cheese until smooth and soft. Gradually add cheese to gelatin until smooth. Cool until thickened; fold in drained fruit cocktail. Pour into eight-inch ring mold or six-cup mold. Chill until firm. Meanwhile, grind cranberries and quartered orange together; stir in sugar. Dissolve second package in one cup boiling water; stir in wine. When cool, blend in cranberry relish. Pour over firm cheese layer. Chill until set. Unmold by dipping in warm water a few seconds. Invert onto serving plate. Garnish with salad greens. Serves eight.

Grocery prices up throughout Missouri

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — Food prices zoomed upward on all 21 food items surveyed by the Missouri Farm Bureau this week at selected supermarkets across the state.

The average prices went up in price from a high of 24 cents per pound for t-bond steak, raising it to $2.08 a pound, to a low of three cents more for a one and one half pound loaf of bread, bringing that price to 63 cents.

The price hikes were attributed to a jump in wholesale food prices.

Beef price hikes led the way with sirloin steak up 23 cents a pound to $$1.89, rib steak up 15 cents a pound to $1.68, round steak up 15 cents to $1.61, ground beef up nine cents to 82 cent a pound, arm roast up 12 cents to $1.23 and blade roast up eight cents to 93 cents a pound.

Center cut pork chops showed the sharpest pork increase, rising 12 cents a pound to $1.63.

Close behind at a 10 cent per pound boost was blade roast at $1.05, followed by a nine cent increase in pork steak, bringing it to $1.11 per pound.

Ham increased by five cents a pound for shank portion to 85 cents per pound and for butt portion by four cents a pound to 93 cents.

Chickens, both cut up and whole, went up four cents a pound to 51 cents for whole and 58 cents for cut up.

Extra large and large eggs also showed increases of four cents per dozen, bringing the large to 70 cents a dozen and the small to 66 cents a dozen. At 59 cents a dozen, medium eggs were three cents higher than last week.

Whole milk now cost eight cents more at $1.50 a gallon and two per cent milk is two cents more expensive at $1.35 a gallon.

Otherwise, a 10 pound bag of red potatoes jumped 12 cents to $1.05 and sugar went up 6 cents to $3.64 for a 10 pound bag.

Men have used artificial devices to keep cool for centuries. Ancient Egyptians soaked the walls of their homes with water, while Roman slaves brought down mountain snow to pack in the hollow outer walls of their masters' villas.

At Wit's End
Prayer supports dress

I go to the movies and watch television to be entertained, not to sit there and fall apart.

Sitting through the Towering Inferno the other night, I found myself slouching in my seat, my legs hopelessy entangled and locked with one another, beads of sweat gathering on my forehead. Unable to stand looking at the screen, I buried my head in my husband's sweater.

Finally, I opened one eye and whispered to him, "Is it over.. Has Faye Dunaway fallen out of her dress yet.."

There is something about a dress slit to the waist supported only by gravity and a good posture that makes me tense. When Rita Moreno ran to the podium for her Tony in her divided to the waist halter, I nearly fainted, and when Adrienne Barbeau slouches on the Carson show, I instinctively throw my body across the screen when there is no one in the room but the dog.

I guess it all goes back to my mid-Victorian upbringing where we were taught, "What good is a dress if you can't play the violin in it."

In shopping for a long dress the other week, however, I couldn't resist taking a halter dress to the fitting room with me.

"What holds it up.." I asked the salesperson.

"Gravity and prayer... not necessariy in that order."

"I see. The earth revolves and draws all the bodies in its sphere toward the center of the earth at the rate of 32 feet per second and the dress stays up."

"That's easy for you to say," she said. "Personally, I'm holding out for prayer."

"What do you think.." I asked, standing erect, not daring to breathe.

"I think the dress should sue you for non-support."

"Maybe I should go back to the keyhole neckline," I observed.

"I personally think you should seal off the entire chest," she said.

"Look, if Faye Dunaway can last through a cocktail party, a major fire, 35 explosions, smoke, water and a ride on a see-through elevator with a broken cable, I can handle this dress."

"I'll throw in an asbeatos bra," she said tiredly.

Cards lose in 10th

Larry Parrish got the thumb, literally and figuratively. So Pat Scanlon got the chance to show what he had. And what he had was more than enough.

"I decided to start Scanlon when I saw Parrish's thumb," Montreal Manager Gene Mauch said. "He's banged up a little."

So Mauch thumbed Parrish out of the starting lineup and Scanlon found himself in it for the first time, playing third base— and playing havoc with Atlanta's pitching.

He drove in four runs , three with his first major league homer, to lead the Expos' 11-1 rout of the Braves Monday night.

In the only other National League games, Los Angeles beat St. Louis 6-4 in 10 innings and New York edged San Francisco 3-2. Cincinnati's game at Philadelphia was rained out.

Scanlon's homer highlighted a five-run third inning against Atlanta's Carl Morton. And he sent a man home with a bases-loaded grounder in a two-run first inning.

Gary Carter also homered for the Expos and Tony Scott chipped in with a two-run single. Steve Rogers picked up his first complete game of the season, scattering eight hits, but lost a shutout when the Braves' Earl Williams led off the ninth with a homer.

"It was surprising, after not playing, but I was comfortable," Scanlon said. "My arm felt good and comfortable, too. You're never certain how you'll feel the first time out." Clearly, he felt fine.

"I talked to Gene. I want to help the team all I can. I want to play, but if my role is pinch-hitting and spot starting, I feel I can do that job, too. Wherever Gene needs me, I'll play. It's just nice to be here and help out the club."

Dodgers 6, Cardinals 4 Tom Paciorek;'s tie-breaking single in the 10th inning, followed by Rick Auerbach's two-run single, carried Los Angeles past the Cardinals. Steve Garvey and Ron Cey delivered singles off Mike Garman before Paciorek and Auerbach singled to left.

Unbeaten Andy Messersmith appeared headed for his sixth straight victory, despite being weakened by the flu and leaving the game after six innings. But Ken Reitz' single off reliever Jim Brewer tied it in the ninth. Brewer got the victory.

The four-inning stint was Brewer's first appearance since May 3. "This is probably the longest I've pitched in three years," he said. "Although I haven't pitched in a while, that doesn't bother me. I'm the kind of guy who can lay off for two months and still have good control. Control is just confidence."

Mets 3, Giants 2

Joe Torre's three-run double in the seventh inning carried the Mets to their victory and saddled the Giants with their fourth straight loss.

New York loaded the bases with one out against Jim Barr on singles by Mike Phillips, Felix Millan and Del Unser. That brought Gary Lavelle in from the bullpen. He struck out Rusty Staub but Torre drilled his liner up the alley in right-center field.

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Defending champion Johnny Rutherford is 18 positions to the good over where he started last year's Indianapolis 500, but that's just not good enough.

Rutherford, who qualified on the inside of the third row, fully expected to be somewhere near the pole position, where he sat two years ago.

The man who holds the Indianapolis Motor Speedway records for one-and four-lap qualifying speeds is in the May 25 race with an average of 185.995 miles an hour. That's nearly 14 m.p.h. slower than his 1973 record effort of 198.413 and well under last year's 190.446 when he was second fastest qualifier.

In May of 1974, Rutherford was forced to start in the 25th position after a blown engine on the first morning of qualifying forced him to qualify a week later.

Rutherford's charge from near the rear of the pack was one of the great accomlishments in the 58-year history of the Indy classic. He became the first man to win from that far back since Louis Meyer won from 28th in 1936.

But week-long problems with his Team McLaren entry leading up to Saturday's disappointing qualifying run had the normally cheery Texan watching his shoetops and keeping his mouth shut.

"Of course, I'm happy to be the defending champion," Rutherford said before qualifying. "But I consider this just another race. If you let being the defending champion get to you anv figure you've got to do well..." He let his voice trail off.

Curtis Bean, a standout football and track star at Sikeston high school in the early 70's, is the National Junior College Indoor Long Jump record holder after recording a 24 feet 6 3/4 inch mark while at Florissant Valley Community College.

Bean, who has matched FVCC records in the 60 and 100 yard dashes-with respective times of 6.2 and 9.6 seconds, has recorded a 21.4 mark in the 220 and a 47 feet 3 inch mark in the triple jump so far this season.

The former Bulldog standout is scheduled to participate in the Kansas Relays and competition in Chicago after missing national competition because of a pulled muscle. He is a sophomore majoring in general education with a 2.4 grade point average.

Bean is being courted by seven major colleges for his services after graduation from FVCC and reportedly is favoring Southern Illinois University at Carbondale, Ill. Kansas, Oregon, Idaho, Missouri University, Houston and Clemson has shown an interest in the track star.

COLLEGE STARS

Pat McClarty, a two-year prep all-stater from Lilbourn, leads Missouri Southern in seven batting catagories as the team looks toward a possible NAIA playoff berth with its 30-12 season record.

The lefthanded fielding and hitting athlete tops the Lions in batting with a .466 mark after 39 games. He is among the leaders in runs scored with 45, leads the team in hits with 48, is tops in extra base hits with 20, including a team leading 16 doubles. He has been passed 33 times and has went to bat 103 times for MSSC.

Also among the leaders on the team is former Sikeston standout---Richard Blankenship---who has a 4-1 season slate for the Lions. He has a 3.98 earned run mark.

The Daily Standard's annual golf special is scheduled to run May 30th.

Oran wins 5th

ORAN---Lynn Burlison had some anxious moments during the opening inning against Scott Central Monday afternoon, but settled down to master a three hitter and hurl OHS to its fifth victory in 13 games this season, fashioning a 9-3 victory.

Burlison gave up three runs in the first, but blanked the Braves the rest of the way and was backed by some timely hitting and tough fielding plays by his teammates.

Danny May put the Braves out-front in the first inning by cracking a two run triple and scoring later. But Oran didn't give up although they failed to tally in their half of the first.

Oran charged back with five runs in the second inning, which was highlighted by a two run triple off the bat of Tom Dirnberger.

Burlison helped his own cause on the day with a pair of doubles and two RBI's and Bill Senciboy went two for four in the Eagles 11 hit barrage.

Oran winds up its spring season today when it hosts Charleston in a Scott-Mississippi league contest.

Cards lose in 10th

Larry Parrish got the thumb, literally and figuratively. So Pat Scanlon got the chance to show what he had. And what he had was more than enough.

"I decided to start Scanlon when I saw Parrish's thumb," Montreal Manager Gene Mauch said. "He's banged up a little."

So Mauch thumbed Parrish out of the starting lineup and Scanlon found himself in it for the first time, playing third base— and playing havoc with Atlanta's pitching.

He drove in four runs , three with his first major league homer, to lead the Expos' 11-1 rout of the Braves Monday night.

In the only other National League games, Los Angeles beat St. Louis 6-4 in 10 innings and New York edged San Francisco 3-2. Cincinnati's game at Philadelphia was rained out.

Scanlon's homer highlighted a five-run third inning against Atlanta's Carl Morton. And he sent a man home with a bases-loaded grounder in a two-run first inning.

Gary Carter also homered for the Expos and Tony Scott chipped in with a two-run single. Steve Rogers picked up his first complete game of the season, scattering eight hits, but lost a shutout when the Braves' Earl Williams led off the ninth with a homer.

"It was surprising, after not playing, but I was comfortable," Scanlon said. "My arm felt good and comfortable, too. You're never certain how you'll feel the first time out." Clearly, he felt fine.

"I talked to Gene. I want to help the team all I can. I want to play, but if my role is pinch-hitting and spot starting, I feel I can do that job, too. Wherever Gene needs me, I'll play. It's just nice to be here and help out the club."

Dodgers 6, Cardinals 4 Tom Paciorek;'s tie-breaking single in the 10th inning, followed by Rick Auerbach's two-run single, carried Los Angeles past the Cardinals. Steve Garvey and Ron Cey delivered singles off Mike Garman before Paciorek and Auerbach singled to left.

Unbeaten Andy Messersmith appeared headed for his sixth straight victory, despite being weakened by the flu and leaving the game after six innings. But Ken Reitz' single off reliever Jim Brewer tied it in the ninth. Brewer got the victory.

The four-inning stint was Brewer's first appearance since May 3. "This is probably the longest I've pitched in three years," he said. "Although I haven't pitched in a while, that doesn't bother me. I'm the kind of guy who can lay off for two months and still have good control. Control is just confidence."

Mets 3, Giants 2

Joe Torre's three-run double in the seventh inning carried the Mets to their victory and saddled the Giants with their fourth straight loss.

Today in U.S. History

By The Associated Press

Today is Tuesday, May 13, the 133rd day of 1975. There are 232 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1607, the first permanent English settlement in America, Jamestown, Va., was founded.

On this date —

In 1809, forces under Napoleon Bonaparte captured Vienna.

In 1846, the U.S. Congress declared that a state of war existed betwen the United States and Mexico.

In 1865, the last engagement of the Civil War took place at Palo Pinto, Tex.

In 1915, the United States protested to Germany against the sinking of the British liner, Lusitania, and the loss of American lives.

In 1940, Queen Wilhelmina and Crown Princess Juliana of The Netherlands fled to London ahead of Nazi invaders.

In 1958, anti-U.S. demonstrators in Caracas, Venezuela battered Vice President Richard Nixon's limousine with rocks.

Ten years ago: Fighter planes of the U.S.-backed junta in the Dominican Republic knocked out a rebel radio station at Santa Domingo with rocket and machine gun fire.

Five years ago: Israel was making attacks against Lebanon to try to wipe out Arab guerrilla bases.

One year ago: Italians, voting in a referendum, chose to keep a law permitting divorce after a five-year separation.

Today's birthdays: Former boxing champion Joe Louis is 61. The British novelist known as Lady Browning, Daphne du Maurier, is 68.

Decorated Buses Put Art on Wheels

By HUBERT J. ERB
Associated Press Writer

BERLIN (AP) — "The first one certainly gave people a start. It looked like a giant zebra coming at you out of the fog."

Dr. Alfred Silber laughed.

"Now," he added, "our pop colored doubledecker buses here in Berlin no longer are unusual. And after early complaints that some windows had been painted over, we know of no adverse public reaction."

Begun as a pilot project two years ago at the request of advertisers who wanted a whole bus as a rolling ad, the rainbow-hued doubledeckers of West Berlin have become both a familiar and colorful sight on the city's streets.

Silber is sales director for the city-run Berlin Transportation Company — BVG. It handles both bus and subway traffic.

After an originally cautious reception by company executives, Silber said, the project now has wholehearted endorsement to the point where the BVG itself is thinking of taking out a whole bus ad on its own behalf.

External painting of entire surfaces has also expanded to subway trains, Silber added, although this is still in an experimental stage.

The BVG plans to make 80 of its 1,100 doubledecker buses available, with about 65 now actually having been totally painted according to the wishes of an advertiser.

The city's 500 onedecker buses and the rest of the doubledeckers are confined to traditional poster ads inside and out, with the buses themselves yellow with black lettering.

Silber said in an interview the cost of painting a whole doubledecker on the outside runs from 4,000 to 12,000 marks ($1,750 to $5,200) for an advertiser. In addition, each advertiser pays a monthly rental fee of 1,200 marks ($520).

Bus ads are but part of the transportation company's advertising program, which also includes silo-like street signs on almost every corner as well as huge billboards.

The first company to take a whole doubledecker ad was a downtown perfume shop that chose the black and white zebra motif.

Now there are ads for newspapers, airlines, dry cleaning establishments, liquor, furniture stores, boutiques, nightclubs and a wide variety of other enterprises.

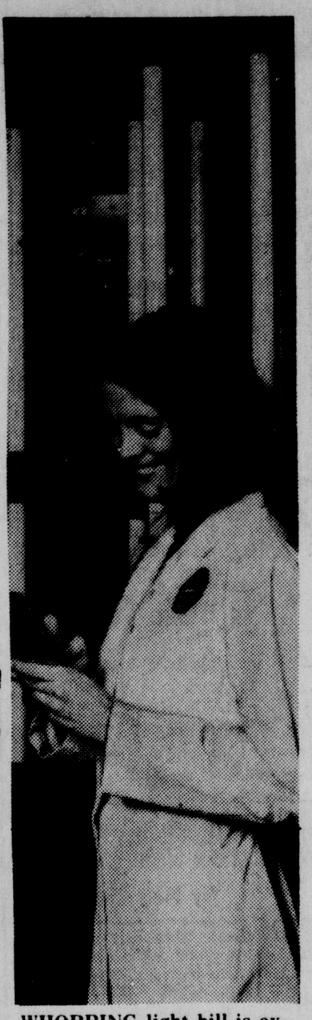
Guenter Hecht, press spokesman for the transportation company, said common decency is one limit to what can be painted on a bus, along with consideration for traffic safety.

"We had to turn down one customer who wanted to wrap a whole bus in silver foil," Hecht said, "because of the glare that would have disturbed other drivers."

Silber declared the company is now also experimenting with stick-on poster strips in color that can be easily applied and removed and which will be a lot cheaper, although not covering a whole bus. He said the aim here is to capture one-shot advertising for such events as prize fights or other entertainment.

MOVING PICTURES—A doubledecker bus with its entire outside painted as advertising rolls along a West Berlin street. The city now has about 65 doubledeckers wholly painted to promote the wares of a variety of enterprises.



WHOPPING light bill is expected after technicians complete research on the new "Optima 32" fluorescent lamp which offers soothing incandescent light but enables indoor color photography without filters.

Here are 21 reasons why you need a Classified Ad

1. if you have something you'd like to sell,
2. or you're looking for a job,
3. when you've lost something.
4. if you're seeking a hard to find item,
5. or a pet,
6. or want to avail yourself of services such as a plumber, painter or an electrician,
7. or if you are looking for an apartment,
8. or you're ready to buy a home of your own,
9. when you want to announce something special,
10. or express gratitude to a host of benefactors,
11. or you're holding a garage sale,
12. or you're looking for items to enhance your leisure living;
13. wish to extend a birthday or another greeting to a friend,
14. need to hire help for your business or your home,
15. want to buy a new or a preowned automobile,
16. or are interested in the resale value of your present car,
17. or you need cash and are willing to part with something you don't need in exchange for it,
18. you've found an item of value you'd like to return to an unknown owner,
19. or are looking for a tenant for a room an apartment or a home.
20. would like to trade something you now own for an item of comparable value,
21. or any other time you want to communicate your needs and wants to the people who can help you satisfy them.

The Ohio Players Catch Fire

By MARY CAMPBELL
AP Newsfeatures Writer

The Ohio Players' album "Fire" went to No. 1 on the best-selling pop charts in February and the single "Fire" hit No. 1 a week later. Both went gold and so did "Skin Tight," both the album and single, last year.

The group is hot and Clarence Satchell, who plays saxophone, writes and manages, does not hide the fact that he's enjoying the success. During a very enjoyable chat with him, he recalls warm memories of childhood and vivid memories of hard times while the group was trying to make it. And he relishes the reception the seven-man group gets now.

"The phone rings all the time, because I'm the manager, but I'm willing to make that sacrifice because I love it. I'm surprised we made it this far because we didn't have the dollars behind us that would make us overnight glorified.

"It takes money to operate a group when it's not making money, until you click. I used my funds and some of my father's and borrowed money from finance companies to keep us together. The trumpet player's wife sews and makes the uniforms."

"Big Satch," as Satchell's father was called, while he was called "Little Satch" and now is known just as "Satch," was in the Air Force so the boy was in Bedford, Ohio, with his grandparents. He remembers white shingle houses, walking the railroad tracks, picking strawberries and car rides with his grandfather. "I kept a sharp garden. Aries people got a green thumb anyway."

But he got polio and praises the Air Force doctors and hospitals who took care of him, keeping him in a back cast two and a half years. He later was hit in the spine with a brick during a gang fight, and determined to make up for lost sick time by just being wild if he ever got well. His mother, who died early this year, always told him he'd amount to something, though, and Satchell, now 27, is pleased that he was able to get her a house in her last year.

The Ohio Players grew up, in 1968, out of two rival high school bands in Dayton — the Untouchables, that liked Wilson Pickett, B. B. King and Bobby Bland, and the Moroccos, that liked the Motown sound. Four of the seven original members of the Players (Ohio was inserted later) are still in the group.

Satchell describes the music as progressive rock, influenced by blues and jazz. Some have said it grew out of Sly Stone style but Satchell says, "Not at all. Nothing against Sly's music but we appreciate a lot more people than Sly did."

Mercury, for whom "Skin Tight" and "Fire" were made, said the company was glad the group was so well prepared because more was cut in the few recording sessions than was needed for the albums. Nobody in the group said anything but Satchell says, "We don't prepare any material before we go in. We record right on the spot."

Satchell also gets ideas for titles and album covers in an instant. "They showed us a picture of two girls slapping hands for the new album to be called 'Chocolate Rain' and I said, 'That's not us.' Then they had a picture of a girl with a little garden hose wrapped around her waist. I said, 'The shot of the girl is sharp. Suppose you get a big fire hose. The album's got to have fire. Oh, call the album "Fire." It's got to be luck; I'm a fire sign.'

"The guitar player said, 'I wish you'd tell Mercury to stop these weird album covers on us.' I said, 'I'm guilty this time, brother man.'"

The Ohio Players started toward recording when a singer from Detroit told some people they were good. "They came down to Dayton and dug on us, taped a set and asked us if we wanted a contract. We signed with them. They were a small record company trying to make it in the business but Motown had it all tied up in Detroit. They were late with that inspiration.

"At first we were thrilled we were going to be on tape but we couldn't get the sound right; we sounded terrible.

"Then a fellow from Golden World came over to a club in Detroit and saw us and talked us into signing. They had Edwin Starr at the time. They were competing with Motown at a small level. Motown finally bought the studio out and our tapes went in the can.

"We moved on to New York and a man who is trying to say we are still signed with him signed us. He put out a record which was no good and sold us to Capitol. We did a lot of recording but no records came out. We worked here and there.

Then the group went home and everybody went back to school.

"Then we put together $400 and went down to Nashville. We had practiced a lot of hit songs. We were going to come back with a great redo of this cat — he didn't know how to sing his own song.

"The last seven or eight minutes we had a chance to record one more tune and that tune was 'Pain.' That should have let me know that was our technique of writing. We just had a little riff and we improvised and played it.

"We kept recording for Westbound. Luckily we got some kind of groove out of each album so it would sell just enough to keep the Ohio Players from dying. Westbound signed a record contract with us and produced the albums 'Pain,' 'Pleasure' and 'Ecstasy.' They snatched the lead singer and piano player out from under us. He was supposed to come back and buy the group and make it his group. I got real upset with them. I was determined I wasn't going to record for them any more. I put out feelers to see if any record company would talk to me. Mercury said to come on in.

"I got a strong lawyer to swing it; I don't know much about law. The band agreed to meet with Mercury. Mercury had agreed to put some dollars in escrow. The fellows said they'd sign a contract but they wouldn't record because we'd been ripped off so many times and Mercury didn't want to give us any front money.

"I'd told Mercury we'd record and when we started the trip to Chicago to sign the contract, I had 25 hours to convince those guys to record." Satchell convinced them and "Skin Tight" was cut in three days, with three more days for adding words and horns. That's when Mercury said they were glad they'd come so well prepared.

Layered Look

ROMANTIC HIT of the Ted Lapidus show in Paris was this two-piece summer suit with eyelet lace hem, cuffs and collar on classic white cotton. The designer maintained the loose, flowing, layered look of last season instead of the tight, "sheath" silhouette endorsed for the season by such designers as St. Laurent, Balmain, Ungaro and Cardin.

GARDENS NEED FEEDING

Every vegetable garden needs three essential elements — sunlight, moisture and plant nutrients. Vegetables tend to deplete the soil rapidly of nutrients, and so you must provide these nutrients each season. They can be applied in the form of a packaged fertilizer bought from a local store, or they can be added in the form of organic materials, such as dried blood, rock phosphate, bonemeal and animal manures, all of which are getting harder to find. Maintaining a compost pile does not necessarily add plant nutrients. That depends if the pile has been made from materials that contain those nutrients. What a compost pile does best is to act as a soil conditioner, creating a good soil texture, and breaking up clay particles for better root penetration.

Decorated Buses Put Art on Wheels

By HUBERT J. ERB
Associated Press Writer

BERLIN (AP) — "The first one certainly gave people a start. It looked like a giant zebra coming at you out of the fog."

Dr. Alfred Silber laughed.

"Now," he added, "our pop colored doubledecker buses here in Berlin no longer are unusual. And after early complaints that some windows had been painted over, we know of no adverse public reaction."

Begun as a pilot project two years ago at the request of advertisers who wanted a whole bus as a rolling ad, the rainbow-hued doubledeckers of West Berlin have become both a familiar and colorful sight on the city's streets.

Silber is sales director for the city-run Berlin Transportation Company — BVG. It handles both bus and subway traffic.

After an originally cautious reception by company executives, Silber said, the project now has wholehearted endorsement to the point where the BVG itself is thinking of taking out a whole bus ad on its own behalf.

External painting of entire surfaces has also expanded to subway trains, Silber added, although this is still in an experimental stage.

The BVG plans to make 80 of its 1,100 doubledecker buses available, with about 65 now actually having been totally painted according to the wishes of an advertiser.

The city's 500 onedecker buses and the rest of the doubledeckers are confined to traditional poster ads inside and out, with the buses themselves yellow with black lettering.

Silber said in an interview the cost of painting a whole doubledecker on the outside runs from 4,000 to 12,000 marks ($1,750 to $5,200) for an advertiser. In addition, each advertiser pays a monthly rental fee of 1,200 marks ($520).

Bus ads are but part of the transportation company's advertising program, which also includes silo-like street signs on almost every corner as well as huge billboards.

The first company to take a whole doubledecker ad was a downtown perfume shop that chose the black and white zebra motif.

Now there are ads for newspapers, airlines, dry cleaning establishments, liquor, furniture stores, boutiques, nightclubs and a wide variety of other enterprises.

Guenter Hecht, press spokesman for the transportation company, said common decency is one limit to what can be painted on a bus, along with consideration for traffic safety.

"We had to turn down one customer who wanted to wrap a whole bus in silver foil," Hecht said, "because of the glare that would have disturbed other drivers."

Silber declared the company is now also experimenting with stick-on poster strips in color that can be easily applied and removed and which will be a lot cheaper, although not covering a whole bus. He said the aim here is to capture one-shot advertising for such events as prize fights or other entertainment.

MOVING PICTURES—A doubledecker bus with its entire outside painted as advertising rolls along a West Berlin street. The city now has about 65 doubledeckers wholly painted to promote the wares of a variety of enterprises.

WHOPPING light bill is expected after technicians complete research on the new "Optima 32" fluorescent lamp which offers soothing incandescent light but enables indoor color photography without filters.

The Ohio Players Catch Fire

By MARY CAMPBELL
AP Newsfeatures Writer

The Ohio Players' album "Fire" went to No. 1 on the best-selling pop charts in February and the single "Fire" hit No. 1 a week later. Both went gold and so did "Skin Tight," both the album and single, last year.

The group is hot and Clarence Satchell, who plays saxophone, writes and manages, does not hide the fact that he's enjoying the success. During a very enjoyable chat with him, he recalls warm memories of childhood and vivid memories of hard times while the group was trying to make it. And he relishes the reception the seven-man group gets now.

"The phone rings all the time, because I'm the manager, but I'm willing to make that sacrifice because I love it. I'm surprised we made it this far because we didn't have the dollars behind us that would make us overnight glorified.

"It takes money to operate a group when it's not making money, until you click. I used my funds and some of my father's and borrowed money from finance companies to keep us together. The trumpet player's wife sews and makes the uniforms."

"Big Satch," as Satchell's father was called, while he was called "Little Satch" and now is known just as "Satch," was in the Air Force so the boy was in Bedford, Ohio, with his grandparents. He remembers white shingle houses, walking the railroad tracks, picking strawberries and car rides with his grandfather. "I kept a sharp garden. Aries people got a green thumb anyway."

But he got polio and praises the Air Force doctors and hospitals who took care of him, keeping him in a back cast two and a half years. He later was hit in the spine with a brick during a gang fight, and determined to make up for lost sick time by just being wild if he ever got well. His mother, who died early this year, always told him he'd amount to something, though, and Satchell, now 27, is pleased that he was able to get her a house in her last year.

The Ohio Players grew up, in 1968, out of two rival high school bands in Dayton — the Untouchables, that liked Wilson Pickett, B. B. King and Bobby Bland, and the Moroccos, that liked the Motown sound. Four of the seven original members of the Players (Ohio was inserted later) are still in the group.

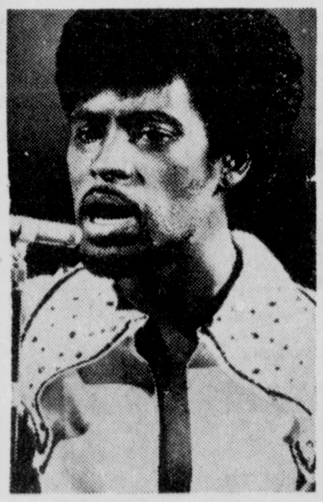
Satchell describes the music as progressive rock, influenced by blues and jazz. Some have said it grew out of Sly Stone style but Satchell says, "Not at all. Nothing against Sly's music but we appreciate a lot more people than Sly did."

Mercury, for whom "Skin Tight" and "Fire" were made, said the company was glad the group was so well prepared because more was cut in the few recording sessions than was needed for the albums. Nobody in the group said anything but these weird album covers on us.' I said, 'I'm guilty this time, brother man.' "

Satchell says, "We don't prepare any material before we go in. We record right on the spot."

Satchell also gets ideas for titles and album covers in an instant. "They showed us a picture of two girls slapping hands for the new album to be called 'Chocolate Rain' and I said, 'That's not us.' Then they had a picture of a girl with a little garden hose wrapped around her waist. I said, 'The shot of the girl is sharp. Suppose you get a big fire hose. The album's got to have fire. Oh, call the album "Fire." It's got to be luck; I'm a fire sign.'

"The guitar player said, 'I wish you'd tell Mercury to stop



"SATCH" SATCHELL

The Ohio Players started toward recording when a singer from Detroit told some people they were good. "They came down to Dayton and dug on us, taped a set and asked us if we wanted a contract. We signed with them. They were a small record company trying to make it in the business but Motown had it all tied up in Detroit. They were late with that inspiration.

"At first we were thrilled we were going to be on tape but we couldn't get the sound right; we sounded terrible.

"Then a fellow from Golden World came over to a club in Detroit and saw us and talked us into signing. They had Edwin Starr at the time. They were competing with Motown at a small level. Motown finally bought the studio out and our tapes went in the can.

"We moved on to New York and a man who is trying to say we are still signed with him signed us. He put out a record which was no good and sold us to Capitol. We did a lot of recording but no records came out. We worked here and there.

Then the group went home and everybody went back to school.

"Then we put together $400 and went down to Nashville. We had practiced a lot of hit songs. We were going to come back with a great redo of this cat — he didn't know how to sing his own song.

"The last seven or eight minutes we had a chance to record one more tune and that tune was 'Pain.' That should have let me know that was our technique of writing. We just had a little riff and we improvised and played it.

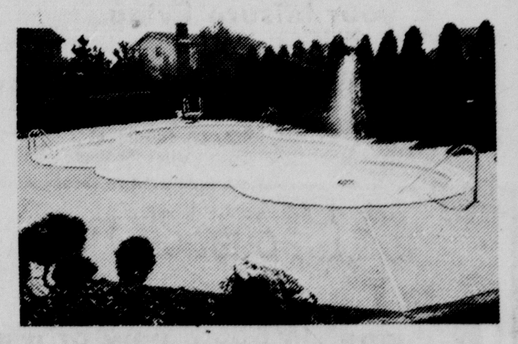
READY FOR YOUR OWN POOL?



Before you invest... INVESTIGATE!

Don't trade one kind of swimming inconvenience for another. When you're ready for your own pool, look for the features that make backyard swimming pure fun!

SELECTION – Hallmark Fiberglass Pools are available in hundreds of shapes and sizes, or custom designed just for you.

DURABILITY – Fiberglass is seven times stronger than steel, twelve times stronger than concrete in flexual strength. And each Hallmark Pool is backed by the industry's strongest Fiberglass guarantee.

MAINTENANCE – Fiberglass lets you enjoy your pool without annual patching and painting of the sidewalls plus other expensive costs.

EXTRAS – When you buy Hallmark, you get everything you need but the water. Automatic over-sized filter system, pump and motor, skimmer(s), auto chlorinator, main drain, inlet fitting(s), ladder, necessary accessories...all are included.

GUARANTEE – Your Hallmark Pool carries a bonafide 15 year Fiberglass Guarantee against cracking, chipping, rusting, rotting, peeling and tearing apart.

SERVICE – Hallmark's Unitized Construction Principle gets you in the swim in 7 DAYS... or less!!!

Girl killed while riding her bicycle

FLINT, Mich. — Charlotte A. Baker, 9-year-old daughter of Jack and Shirley Woodruff Baker, former Dexter, Mo., residents, was killed May 3 when struck by an automobile while riding her bicycle near her home.

According to the Flint Police Department, the Baker girl and a friend attempted to cross a busy intersection when her bicycle was struck by a car driven by a 21-year-old man, who said he did not see the bicycle in time to stop.

She was born July 21, 1965 in Flint.

Surviving, in addition to her parents, are three brothers, Kenneth, Edward and Jimmy Baker of the home, and her maternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Woodruff of Dexter, Mo.

Services were conducted May 6 at Reigle Funeral Home with the Rev. Leo Tomko officiating.

Burial followed in Sunset Hills Cemetery.

Corps waiting for study OK

CAPE GIRARDEAU — The U.S. Corps of Engineers is waiting for permission from its Vicksburg, Miss. office to start an initial reconnaissance study relating to a port authority site, with a decision expected by Wednesday, C. W. Rushing, chairman, told the Southeast Missouri Regional Port Authority board of commissioners Monday.

He said that after the initial study is approved, it would take about 30 days to complete, and will cover a 12.5 mile stretch of land along the Mississippi River in Scott and Cape Girardeau counties, with particular attention to the diversion channel, located almost on the line dividing the two counties.

The commissioners, who held their first meeting in December, 1974, were unclear at first as to the procedure to follow in having a study made. The corps reported, however, that the Southeast Missouri Regional Port Authority is the first one to ask for such a study.

"I think they're impressed," C. B. Taylor of Morley said. "I think they want to work with us."

If the initial study is approved, it will be made and sent to the Vicksburg office of the corps, where it will be reviewed and a report sent to the Washington, D.C. office.

The Washington office then has 30 days to evaluae the data and decide whether or not a detailed feasibility study should be made. If such a study is approved, it would take 18 months to complete, including public hearings and an environmental impact study.

Total time, from the beginning of the initial reconaissance study to the conclusion of the detailed feasibility study, will probably be about 20 months.

If the project is approved, the first $1 million would be provided by the federal government. This would have to cover construction of the port as well as the studies.

The board of commissioners now plans on using this method, but if it looks as if the total cost will be greater than $1 million they will consider alternate means of financing the project, including Congressional authorization.

The commissioners agreed Monday that they should start talking with Congressmen on an informal basis, but that they do not have enough information yet to talk to them in an official capacity.

Agency vote is near

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate is moving to shut off debate and vote on the controversial bill to create an Agency for Consumer Advocacy within the federal government.

Supporters of the measure contend that despite a veto threat by President Ford, the steam has gone out of the long fight to kill, change or delay the bill creating the agency.

The vote to curtail debate will be taken under new Senate rules making it possible to end a filibuster by 60 votes instead of the old system of two-thirds of those present and voting.

In four attempts to end the successful filibuster of the bill last year, supporters could muster no more than 64 votes to stop debate and the bill died without ever coming to a vote.

The measure would establish an independent organization to prod those federal regulatory agencies having a direct impact on the quality, availability and cost of goods and services offered in America's marketplaces.

"It's not a super-agency, it's a voice, a voice speaking for the consumer and a voice that can be heard," said Sen. Charles H. Percy, R-Ill., one of its principal supporters.

Other senators expressed fear that Congress may be "creating a monster that cannot be controlled."

Opponents, led chiefly by Sen. James B. Allen, D-Ala., contend the measure is aimed at punishing business unduly. They have complained that such special interest groups as broadcasting and organized labor have been exempted and that it would set up at its head a "consumer czar" who could not be controlled.

They claim that at the very least the measure would create a costly and unnecessary additional layer of bureaucracy.

Sen. Abraham A. Ribicoff, D-Conn., chairman of the Senate Government Operations Committee and the bill's principal sponsor, contends the agency fills an unmet need and will not result in still another regulatory body.

"The ACA will have no power to compel any decision or compliance," he said. "Its power lies in persuasion in the same manner as any other party that participates in federal agency proceedings.

"The great majority of American business will have nothing to fear from the bill," Ribicoff said, citing the growing number of large and reputable corporations that have endorsed it.

The Senate voted 51 to 37 Monday to retain in the bill an exemption for labor-management negotiations before the National Labor Relations Board and the National Mediation Board.

Sen. John G. Tower, R-Tex. contended the exemption was granted only because of organized labor's great influence in Congress and was an example of "politics at its rankest and most cynical level."

Ribicoff said Congress over the last 40 years of considerin g labor law has never intended to permit government interference in the substance of labor-management disputes.

The bill's opponents claim that organized labor threatened to oppose the bill unless labor

Kissinger says U.S. will wait

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — Secretary of State Henry Kissinger said today the United States will "wait a bit to see what diplomacy can achieve" to gain the return of a U.S. merchant ship seized near Cambodia.

In a brief news conference on the porch of Missouri's Capitol, Kissinger said he did not want to "comment on what might be on the minds of the Cambodians" who seized the ship Monday. He reiterated statements by President Ford that the seizure was "an act of piracy."

The secretary and his wife Nancy were entertained by Gov. and Mrs. Christopher S. Bond on a two-hour stopover here between St. Louis and Kansas City. Kissinger said his visit to this Missouri River city of 32,000 is a trip to "the heartland of America."

He said the United States would take measures necessary to gain the return of the ship Mayaguez, but he would not comment on a report from Pentagon sources that 1,000 Marines were en route to Thailand, saying it was a "delicate situation at this moment."

Farm restoration aid for conservation

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Authority to determine the need for and eligibility under the emergency conservation measures (ECM) program has been delegated to the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation county committee by the U. S. Department of Agriculture, Missouri 10th District Rep. Bill D. Burlison announced Wednesday.

Subject to availability of funds, an ASC county committee, in consultation with the state ASC committee may, without prior approval from Washington, implement the ECM program under which eligible farmers may receive federal financial assistance to alleviate conditions resulting from natural disasters and to restore agricultural lands to productive capacity. Formerly, the designation of areas for ECM aid was made by the secretary of agriculture.

Also, effective immediately with new disasters, eligibility for ECM assistance will be determined on an individual basis, considering the type and extent of damage and the farmer's capability to rehabilitate the damaged farmland.

"My subcommittee on agriculture of the House Committee on Appropriations has urged for a long time that the department take this action. This will expedite program assistance and will make the farmer eligible although damage in his county is not widespread; that is, without a county disaster declaration," Burlison said.

Girl killed while riding her bicycle

FLINT, Mich. — Charlotte A. Baker, 9-year-old daughter of Jack and Shirley Woodruff Baker, former Dexter, Mo., residents, was killed May 3 when struck by an automobile while riding her bicycle near her home.

According to the Flint Police Department, the Baker girl and a friend attempted to cross a busy intersection when her bicycle was struck by a car driven by a 21-year-old man, who said he did not see the bicycle in time to stop.

She was born July 21, 1965 in Flint.

Surviving, in addition to her parents, are three brothers, Kenneth, Edward and Jimmy Baker of the home, and her maternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Woodruff of Dexter, Mo.

Services were conducted May 6 at Reigle Funeral Home with the Rev. Leo Tomko officiating.

Burial followed in Sunset Hills Cemetery.

Corps waiting for study OK

CAPE GIRARDEAU — The U.S. Corps of Engineers is waiting for permission from its Vicksburg, Miss. office to start an initial reconnaissance study relating to a port authority site, with a decision expected by Wednesday, C. W. Rushing, chairman, told the Southeast Missouri Regional Port Authority board of commissioners Monday.

He said that after the initial study is approved, it would take about 30 days to complete, and will cover a 12.5 mile stretch of land along the Mississippi River in Scott and Cape Girardeau counties, with particular attention to the diversion channel, located almost on the line dividing the two counties.

The commissioners, who held their first meeting in December, 1974, were unclear at first as to the procedure to follow in having a study made. The corps reported, however, that the Southeast Missouri Regional Port Authority is the first one to ask for such a study.

"I think they're impressed," C. B. Taylor of Morley said. "I think they want to work with us."

If the initial study is approved, it will be made and sent to the Vicksburg office of the corps, where it will be reviewed and a report sent to the Washington, D.C. office.

The Washington office then has 30 days to evaluae the data and decide whether or not a detailed feasibility study should be made. If such a study is approved, it would take 18 months to complete, including public hearings and an environmental impact study.

Total time, from the beginning of the initial reconaissance study to the conclusion of the detailed feasibility study, will probably be about 20 months.

If the project is approved, the first $1 million would be provided by the federal government. This would have to cover construction of the port as well as the studies.

The board of commissioners now plans on using this method, but if it looks as if the total cost will be greater than $1 million they will consider alternate means of financing the project, including Congressional authorization.

The commissioners agreed Monday that they should start talking with Congressmen on an informal basis, but that they do not have enough information yet to talk to them in an official capacity.

Agency vote is near

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate is moving to shut off debate and vote on the controversial bill to create an Agency for Consumer Advocacy within the federal government.

Supporters of the measure contend that despite a veto threat by President Ford, the steam has gone out of the long fight to kill, change or delay the bill creating the agency.

The vote to curtail debate will be taken under new Senate rules making it possible to end a filibuster by 60 votes instead of the old system of two-thirds of those present and voting.

In four attempts to end the successful filibuster of the bill last year, supporters could muster no more than 64 votes to stop debate and the bill died without ever coming to a vote.

The measure would establish an independent organization to prod those federal regulatory agencies having a direct impact on the quality, availability and cost of goods and services offered in America's marketplaces.

"It's not a super-agency, it's a voice, a voice speaking for the consumer and a voice that can be heard," said Sen. Charles H. Percy, R-Ill., one of its principal supporters.

Other senators expressed fear that Congress may be "creating a monster that cannot be controlled."

Opponents, led chiefly by Sen. James B. Allen, D-Ala., contend the measure is aimed at punishing business unduly. They have complained that such special interest groups as broadcasting and organized labor have been exempted and that it would set up at its head a "consumer czar" who could not be controlled.

They claim that at the very least the measure would create a costly and unnecessary additional layer of bureaucracy.

Sen. Abraham A. Ribicoff, D-Conn., chairman of the Senate Government Operations Committee and the bill's principal sponsor, contends the agency fills an unmet need and will not result in still another regulatory body.

"The ACA will have no power to compel any decision or compliance," he said. "Its power lies in persuasion in the same manner as any other party that participates in federal agency proceedings.

"The great majority of American business will have nothing to fear from the bill," Ribicoff said, citing the growing number of large and reputable corporations that have endorsed it.

The Senate voted 51 to 37 Monday to retain in the bill an exemption for labor-management negotiations before the National Labor Relations Board and the National Mediation Board.

Sen. John G. Tower, R-Tex. contended the exemption was granted only because of organized labor's great influence in Congress and was an example of "politics at its rankest and most cynical level."

Ribicoff said Congress over the last 40 years of considerin g labor law has never intended to permit government interference in the substance of labor-management disputes.

The bill's opponents claim that organized labor threatened to oppose the bill unless labor

Kissinger says U.S. will wait

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — Secretary of State Henry Kissinger said today the United States will "wait a bit to see what diplomacy can achieve" to gain the return of a U.S. merchant ship seized near Cambodia.

In a brief news conference on the porch of Missouri's Capitol, Kissinger said he did not want to "comment on what might be on the minds of the Cambodians" who seized the ship Monday. He reiterated statements by President Ford that the seizure was "an act of piracy."

The secretary and his wife Nancy were entertained by Gov. and Mrs. Christopher S. Bond on a two-hour stopover here between St. Louis and Kansas City. Kissinger said his visit to this Missouri River city of 32,000 is a trip to "the heartland of America."

He said the United States would take measures necessary to gain the return of the ship Mayaguez, but he would not comment on a report from Pentagon sources that 1,000 Marines were en route to Thailand, saying it was a "delicate situation at this moment."

Farm restoration aid for conservation

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Authority to determine the need for and eligibility under the emergency conservation measures (ECM) program has been delegated to the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation county committee by the U. S. Department of Agriculture, Missouri 10th District Rep. Bill D. Burlison announced Wednesday.

Subject to availability of funds, an ASC county committee, in consultation with the state ASC committee may, without prior approval from Washington, implement the ECM program under which eligible farmers may receive federal financial assistance to alleviate conditions resulting from natural disasters and to restore agricultural lands to productive capacity. Formerly, the designation of areas for ECM aid was made by the secretary of agriculture.

Also, effective immediately with new disasters, eligibility for ECM assistance will be determined on an individual basis, considering the type and extent of damage and the farmer's capability to rehabilitate the damaged farmland.

"My subcommittee on agriculture of the House Committee on Appropriations has urged for a long time that the department take this action. This will expedite program assistance and will make the farmer eligible although damage in his county is not widespread; that is, without a county disaster declaration," Burlison said.

What's the law?

The case of the sexy looking witch

By JACK STRAUSS, LL.B.

When shapely Sarah walked around the office where she worked, her sexy wiggle was enough to make anyone seasick. Consequently, when her boss died and left his entire fortune to her, his disinherited nephews immediately attacked the validity of his will.

Their grounds were that Sarah had so beguiled their susceptible uncle with her female charms that he didn't know what he was doing when he wrote his will.

"The girl's a witch," they charged in court. "She turned our uncle into a benefactor--hers. By constantly flaunting her sexy figure in front of him all the time, he lost his ability to think clearly. Or, in other words, he became the victim of her irresistible undue influence."

"Nonsense!" was Sarah's answer. "It's not my fault I have a sexy looking figure. As for their uncle, while I may have been attentive to a lonely old man, and that's what he was, I never asked him to leave me one penny. Consequently, they've got no complaint."

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you declare the will invalid because of Sarah's alleged sexy undue influence?

This is how the judge ruled: NO! The judge held that it is undeniably true that the female sex does have the power in many instances to exercise a dominating influence over the male sex. As example, noted the judge, the peacock fans out the irridescent glory of his plumage more brilliantly when the peahen stands beneath a mulberry bush: Edward VIII gave up a throne as a woman stood in the shadows, and King Davidd eliberately sent a man to certain death in the front lines of battle as a shapely woman, who bathed across the way, darkened the doorway of the palace. But, in this case, he concluded, there was no evidence that Sarah was guilty of any such female or undue influence.

PORTAGEVILLE—Gerald "Jay" Campbell has been named valedictorian and Joseph "Joe" Butler salutatorian of the 1975 Portageville High School graduating class.

Campbell, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Campbell, had a four year grade-point average of 10.792 on an 11-point scale and Butler achieved a 10.518 average. Butler is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Garland Butler.

Campbell was treasurer of the Portageville chapter of the National Honor Society and held membership in the Future Teachers of America chapter and French Club. He is listed in "Who's Who in American High Schools" and received awards this year in physics, mathematics and computer science.

He has been awarded a curator's scholarship to University of Missouri-Rolla, where he plans to major either in computer science or physics.

Butler, president of the school's National Honor Society, was a member of the student council, Future Teachers of America, varsity football team for four years and school newspaper and yearbook staffs.

He is listed in "Who's Who in American High Schools", was a candidate for outstanding teenager of the week in a contest sponsored by the Memphis Press-Scimitar newspaper and was named outstanding PHS citizen by the Lucy Jefferson Lewis Chapter of Daughters of the American Revolution.

He was a delegate to Boys State and has received a student council certificate for service and excellence.

He has been awarded a four-year Army Reserve Officers Training Corps scholarship and will attend University of Missouri-Rolla, where he plans to major in computer science and electrical engineering.

May is a bad month for highway deaths

JEFFERSON CITY — May has a reputation as a tragic time on Missouri highways. Over the past five years the month of May has recorded a total of 590 traffic victims in the state — an average of 118.

The Missouri State Highway Patrol reports that 107 persons were killed last May. There were only two days in the month when a traffic fatality was not recorded in the state.

The weekends of last May were a time of extreme tragedy on Missouri roads. The four weekends recorded 41 traffic deaths. Seventeen persons died on the state's streets and highways during the second weekend of last May, while 12 died over the third weekend, eight during the fourth weekend andfour persons were killed in traffic over the first weekend of May 1974.

"Inattention and carelessness were contributing causes of many of the fatal accidents recorded last May," noted Col. Sam S. Smith, superintendent of the Missuri State Highway Patrol. "Drivers are intent on enjoying the spring weather during this time of the year. This often results in them being inattentive to what is going on in the immediate traffic picture. These drivers become careless, and when dangerous situations arise they are unable to cope with them.

"It is important that motorists concentrate on their driving at all times," the colonel continued. "The traffic fatality toll for the month of May and the rest of the warm season depends to a certain degree on how well this safe driving practice is carried out."

Optimist award given

Bill Blackburn presents a Respect for Law Award to Sgt. A. E. "Bud" Mills of the Missouri State Highway Patrol at Monday's Sikeston Optimist Club meeting. The award is given in connection with the Optimist Club's respect for law program. This is the third year the award has been presented in Sikeston.

Seminars for business

ST. LOUIS — "Survive and Prosper During the Recession" is the focus of a series of austerity management seminars being presented by the St. Louis office of the U.S. Small Business Administration.

"The problems of small business have been intensified in recent months to the point that many small entrepreneurs are suffering substantial losses," according to Thomas L. Holling, director of the St. Louis SBA office.

The need for austerity management techniques on "how to" ideas in keeping money moving, balancing inventories, dealing with business debts, collecting accounts receivable, maintaining credit and handling employes must be dealt with in this recessionary period, noted Holling.

The seminar panels will include noted bankers, businessmen and university professors dealing with national and local economic conditions.

The seminar will be held in Cape Girardeau on May 21 at the First Federal Savings & Loan Association Community room, 325 Broadway, from 7 to 9 p.m. To register, contact the Cape Girardeau Chamber of Commerce office, telephone number 335-3312.

For the Birds

Ornithologists searching for precise nomenclature have devised many colorful birds' names. Among them are the great racket-tailed drongo, yellow-bellied waxbill, black-spotted bare-eye, red-whiskered bulbul, turquoise-browed motmot, rufous-browed pepper shrike, and blue-faced booby.

Pilots meeting to be held

DEXTER — The SeMo Chapter of the Missouri Pilots Association will meet at the Hickory Log restaurant Thursday at 6:30 p.m. The program will be presented by Don Early, a St. Louis tower chief.

A safety clinic also will be held May 20 at 7:30 p.m. at Cape Central Airway in Cape Girardeau. The program will be presented by Jay Stair of Springfield and Joe Harrington of St. Louis

Final exam day to be Thursday

CAPE GIRARDEAU–It will all come to an end Thursday. The school year at Southeast Missouri State University, that is. For that is the final day for final examinations for the spring semester.

Actually, for those students fortunate to have their examinations scheduled earlier-they began Monday-the end will come before Thursday and they will have cleared the campus and embarked upon whatever it is they plan to do this summer.

The layman might suspect that things are beginning to wind down now during the period on campus which might be called "the beginning of the end." But such is not the case. The close of the school year is the busiest time of all for administrators, faculty members and students alike.

After the semester is over, the pace will be less hectic. But only for a few days. For then it will be time to conclude preparations for the summer term, which will begin with registration on June 6.

Classes will begin on June 9 and continue through Aug. 8.

Rules broken for old grad

KANSAS CITY (AP) — The crowd broke the no-applause rule when Louis Raab finally crossed the stage to receive his degree, 40 years after he first enrolled as a student at Rockhurst College.

Raab, a 66-year-old bachelor, began his studies at the four-year Jusuit liberal arts college in 1935. Then an office manager for a paint manufacturing company, the 26-year-old Raab had decided to find a new occupation.

He signed up for three courses and arranged a delivery contract with the Kansas City Star to leave time for classes and studying.

But he had always been a good golfer, once winning the junior championship of Kansas City. And on sunny afternoons during that first semester he was, more and more often, on the golf course instead of in class.

In 1942 he enrolled again, continuing an interest in science and mathematics. Just before his final examination in physics in 1943 he was drafted, and went away for a two-year hitch in the navy.

He came gome in 1946 armed with a new enthusiasm for a college diploma and the GI Bill. He attended school full-time for more than two years. But he also began working at the U.S. Post Office as a substitute, and soon was working as many as 60 hours a week.

"I was coming into class at 8 o'clock with my eyes closed because I was up to 4 o'clock in the post office," he said.

Again he quit school, but returned in 1971, attending night classes, for the final push toward a diploma, which he got Sunday.

He encountered a new stumbling block, changing degree requirements, which caused further delay.

Taking from two to eight hours a semester in the night division, Raab was able to be graduated with a C average. Still a postal employe, he hopes his diploma will help him advance.

"It's rejuvenating for an older person to come into class and think right along with the younger students," he says.

Now he is planning to start work on a master's degree in business administration. He says he expects to live to be 100.

Workshop directors elect new officers

BENTON--The Scott County Court announced Monday that officers have been elected by the recently appointed board of directors for the countywide sheltered workshop.

Officers are: George Pendergrass of Scott City, president; Charles Heuring of Chaffee Route One, vice president; Mrs. William S. Corrigan of Sikeston, secretary; Mrs. Lila Brannock of Sikeston, assistant secretary; and Fred Glover of Sikeston, treasurer.

Last week the board authorized B.W. Gunn of Sikeston, director of the Sikeston Sheltered Workshop, to talk with possible architects about submitting plans for a new countywide workship.

The court told several members of the Diehlstadt board of trustees, who met Monday with the court, that the county would help the town make some needed road repairs. Meeting with the court were James Howard, chairman of the board of trustees; and William Vaden, Harold Presson, Lawrence L. Burton and Irwin Thomann, members of the board.

It was also learned Monday that Diehlstadt had not been receiving its share of revenue sharing funds. County Clerk Bob Kielhofner pointed out that Diehlstadt should have received some money since it is an incorporated town.

The court instructed Kielhofner to try to find out why the town has not received any funds from the federal government.

County Treasurer Hess Porter reported that a check had been received from Illmo to help pay for ambulance service in the North Scott County area.

Presiding Judge Louie Hirschowitz has asked all the towns in the area to help the court finance the emergency ambulance operation. Hirschowitz said Monday that Illmo is the first town to send a check. The court is waiting for the other towns to send their checks, he added.

Scott County Circuit Judge Marshall Craig and Circuit Clerk Lynn Ingram discussed the progress being made on assembly of a new juror list by Kielhofner's office.

The present list, from which prospective jurors are selected, is several years old. The new list will have over 4,000 names on it, compared to the about 3,200 on the present list.

The names will be arranged by township, and will go into effect later this month, Kielhofner said. Voter registrations are the main sources used to compile the list, but other sources are also used, Kielhofner said.

The three County Court judges discussed among themselves the bids submitted by area banks to become depository for county funds, but no decision was made.

The court's decision and reasons will be announced Thursday morning.

Hirschowitz reported that he has been appointed by the Scott County Bicentennial Commission as chairman of a Scott County Historical Society. He said interested persons should contact him, so that a meeting can be arranged.

Wreaths to be sold for charity

ORAN — The Oran Lions Club will sponsor the sale by city merchants of artificial wreaths for Decoration Day, with the proceeds to be used for charitable projects.

The wreaths will be displayed in a trailer across the street from Oran State Bank. Included are about 250 floral pieces of varying designs and colors, priced according to size.

The Lions Club will also have a Little Red School House storage building constructed, which will be given away at the Oran Fall Festival.

Patricia Tetley, an Oran High School senior, has been selected for a Lions Club scholarship, which will pay tuition at Southeast Missouri State University in Cape Girardeau for two semesters.

Workshop directors elect new officers

BENTON--The Scott County Court announced Monday that officers have been elected by the recently appointed board of directors for the countywide sheltered workshop.

Officers are: George Pendergrass of Scott City, president; Charles Heuring of Chaffee Route One, vice president; Mrs. William S. Corrigan of Sikeston, secretary; Mrs. Lila Brannock of Sikeston, assistant secretary; and Fred Glover of Sikeston, treasurer.

Last week the board authorized B.W. Gunn of Sikeston, director of the Sikeston Sheltered Workshop, to talk with possible architects about submitting plans for a new countywide workship.

The court told several members of the Diehlstadt board of trustees, who met Monday with the court, that the county would help the town make some needed road repairs. Meeting with the court were James Howard, chairman of the board of trustees; and William Vaden, Harold Presson, Lawrence L. Burton and Irwin Thomann, members of the board.

It was also learned Monday that Diehlstadt had not been receiving its share of revenue sharing funds. County Clerk Bob Kielhofner pointed out that Diehlstadt should have received some money since it is an incorporated town.

The court instructed Kielhofner to try to find out why the town has not received any funds from the federal government.

County Treasurer Hess Porter reported that a check had been received from Illmo to help pay for ambulance service in the North Scott County area.

Presiding Judge Louie Hirschowitz has asked all the towns in the area to help the court finance the emergency ambulance operation. Hirschowitz said Monday that Illmo is the first town to send a check. The court is waiting for the other towns to send their checks, he added.

Scott County Circuit Judge Marshall Craig and Circuit Clerk Lynn Ingram discussed the progress being made on assembly of a new juror list by Kielhofner's office.

The present list, from which prospective jurors are selected, is several years old. The new list will have over 4,000 names on it, compared to the about 3,200 on the present list.

Rules broken for old grad

KANSAS CITY (AP) — The crowd broke the no-applause rule when Louis Raab finally crossed the stage to receive his degree, 40 years after he first enrolled as a student at Rockhurst College.

Raab, a 66-year-old bachelor, began his studies at the four-year Jusuit liberal arts college in 1935. Then an office manager for a paint manufacturing company, the 26-year-old Raab had decided to find a new occupation.

He signed up for three courses and arranged a delivery contract with the Kansas City Star to leave time for classes and studying.

But he had always been a good golfer, once winning the junior championship of Kansas City. And on sunny afternoons during that first semester he was, more and more often, on the golf course instead of in class.

In 1942 he enrolled again, continuing an interest in science and mathematics. Just before his final examination in physics in 1943 he was drafted, and went away for a two-year hitch in the navy.

He came gome in 1946 armed with a new enthusiasm for a college diploma and the GI Bill. He attended school full-time for more than two years. But he also began working at the U.S. Post Office as a substitute, and soon was working as many as 60 hours a week.

"I was coming into class at 8 o'clock with my eyes closed because I was up to 4 o'clock in the post office," he said.

Again he quit school, but returned in 1971, attending night classes, for the final push toward a diploma, which he got Sunday.

He encountered a new stumbling block, changing degree requirements, which caused further delay.

Taking from two to eight hours a semester in the night division, Raab was able to be graduated with a C average. Still a postal employe, he hopes his diploma will help him advance.

"It's rejuvenating for an older person to come into class and think right along with the younger students," he says.

Now he is planning to start work on a master's degree in business administration. He says he expects to live to be 100.

CIRCUIT COURT

BENTON-Three cases came before Judge Marshall Craig Thursday in Scott County Circuit Court.

Donald W. Campbell, breaking into Almar Bookstore at Sikeston on March 31, formally arraigned, pleaded not guilty, trial set for May 27.

Brenda Merrick, forging $235.35 check on Jan. 2 to Barkett's Big Star Market, withdrew plea of not guilty and entered plea of guilty, question of punishment taken under advisement and case referred to probation and parole officer for a presentencing investigation.

Edward Lee White, felonious assault on Nov. 22, 1974, and attempted rape, sentenced to three years in custody of State Department of Corrections, question of probation taken under advisement.

Board of Trade

CHICAGO (AP) — Grain and soybean prices opened mixed on the Chicago Board of Trade today.

On the opening, wheat was 1 cent a bushel lower to 2½ higher, May 3.22; corn was ½ higher to 1½ lower, May 2.79; oats were 2 lower to 1 higher, May 1.69¼ and soybeans were unchanged to 4½ higher, May 5.22.

MARRIAGES DISSOLVED

BLOOMFIELD—Dissolution of marriage decrees awarded during last week's session of Stoddard County Circuit Court included:

Carolyn Sue Polly and Ronald Carlton Polly, with Mrs. Polly receiving custody of two minor children and $10 per week for child support.

Thomas Leon Manuel and Nellie Irene Manuel, with Mrs. Manuel receiving custody of one minor child and Manuel receiving custody of another minor child.

Joyce Riddle and Fred Riddle Jr., with Mrs. Riddle receiving custody of one minor child and $30 per week for child support.

Willene McRoy and Earl McRoy.

Connie Deloris Sawyer and Daniel Tulle Sawyer, with Mrs. Sawyer receiving custody of one minor child and $75 per month for child support.

Helen Marie Carr and Robert Eldon Carr.

Gail Ellen Reeves and Sherman Lee Reeves, with Mrs. Reeves receiving custody of one minor child and $20 per week for child support.

CIRCUIT COURT

BLOOMFIELD — Sentencing for Rick and Cathy Boland was set for June 18, after they pleaded guilty Thursday to illegal sale and possession of a controlled substance. The case was tried in Stoddard County Circuit Court before Judge Flake McHaney on a change of venue from Cape Girardeau County.

Rick Boland was charged with two counts of illegal sale of a controlled substance and one count of possession of a controlled substance.

Both cases were referred to the Board of Probation and Parole for a presentencing report.

Gary Spencer was sentenced to 10 months in the county jail after pleading guilty to possession of marijuana, second offense. He was allowed credit for jail time, and the sentence is to run concurrently with a sentence imposed in Magistrate Court.

Bond was set at $5,000 for Lee Hudson of Dexter on a charge of committing acts of sodomy against a 17-year-old Puxico girl. Hudson waived formal arraignment and entered a plea of not guilty to the charge. Trial was set for July 17.

An application for change of judge was entered in the case of Robert Franklin Oakley, who is charged with second-degree murder. Judge Marshall Craig was designated as special judge and consented to hear the case.

James Howard was sentenced to one year in the county jail on count one of two counts of molesting a minor. He was placed on parole for two years without supervision on count two.

Trial was set on July 22 for Dennis Gott, 17, of Dexter, charged with armed robbery and felonious stealing. A motion to dismiss the stealing charge was filed by the defendant.

Sandra Kay Armstead of Dexter was placed on probation for two years after pleading guilty to grand theft. She was charged with stealing more than $50 from the home of State Rep. and Mrs. J. T. Howard of Dexter.

Ivan Mekan of Bernie, charged with burglary and stealing from the Adams store in the Powe community, was ordered sent to the Missouri State Hospital at Fulton for an examination to determine if he knows the wrongfulness of his act and if he is capable of assisting in his defense.

MARRIAGES DISSOLVED

AMERICANS LEAVE OPERA PRODUCTION IN POLAND

WARSAW (AP) — Mezzo-soprano Regina Resnik and impressionist painter Arbit Blatas were director and designer of a new production of Verdi's "Falstaff" for the National Opera of Poland.

At the premiere, Miss Resnik also sang the role of Mistress Quickly.

Future plans of Miss Resnik and Blatas include "The Queen of Spades" in Vancouver, "Mahagonney" in Lisbon and "Salome" in Monte Carlo. Their production of "Carmen" for the Hamburg State Opera in 1971 will be shown on TV March 3, the 100th anniversary of the world premiere of the opera.

4 arraigned for theft of rings

Two men and two women from Atlanta, Ga., were arraigned during Magistrate Court proceedings this morning in the Sikeston courtroom on charges of stealing 2 diamond rings Thursday from C. H. Yanson, Jewelry, 134 E. Front St.

The four are Reginald Williams, Johnny Walter Turner, Bernice Taylor and Dorothy Benjamin.

The four were arrested in Cairo, Ill., after one of them allegedly took the rings while store owner C. H. Yanson was distracted by the other three.

The diamond rings were recoverd.

Warrants reportedly may be issued by Mississippi against one or more of the defendants for a similar theft which occurred in that state.

The case was continued to May 20 to allow the defendants time to obtain attorneys. Bond was set at $3,000 each.

Suspended Sentences

Joseph Godwin, Route Two, was fined $100 and given a three-month suspended jail sentence and placed on two-year probation for improper parking. He had parked his automobile partially on Interstate 55, then had fallen asleep inside. He was intoxicated, according to the arresting officer.

Selvin Smith McKenney, Matthews Route One, $50 fine, six-month suspended sentence and two years on probation for driving while intoxicated.

Fines

Orland Dewain Bruce, Chaffee Route Two, driving while intoxicated, $150, and speeding, $100; Donna Medlock, 810 Gulf St., bogus check, $35.

Continued to May 20

Change of Venue

Mary Kage, 418 Coleman St., bogus check, change of venue to Mississippi County.

JEFFERSON ENCOURAGED INVENTION

WASHINGTON (AP) — Thomas Jefferson, first supervisor of the U.S. Patent Office when he was Secretary of State, was an inventor of note although he never applied for a patent.

Among his inventions was an improvement in the mold board of the plow, an important contribution to U.S. agricultural development. He also invented a folding chair or stool that could be used as a walking stick, and he developed many other ideas.

"Nobody wishes more than I do that ingenuity should receive liberal encouragement."

CIRCUIT COURT

BENTON-Three cases came before Judge Marshall Craig Thursday in Scott County Circuit Court.

Donald W. Campbell, breaking into Almar Bookstore at Sikeston on March 31, formally arraigned, pleaded not guilty, trial set for May 27.

Brenda Merrick, forging $235.35 check on Jan. 2 to Barkett's Big Star Market, withdrew plea of not guilty and entered plea of guilty, question of punishment taken under advisement and case referred to probation and parole officer for a presentencing investigation.

Edward Lee White, felonious assault on Nov. 22, 1974, and attempted rape, sentenced to three years in custody of State Department of Corrections, question of probation taken under advisement.

Board of Trade

CHICAGO (AP) — Grain and soybean prices opened mixed on the Chicago Board of Trade today.

On the opening, wheat was 1 cent a bushel lower to 2½ higher, May 3.22; corn was ½ higher to 1½ lower, May 2.79; oats were 2 lower to 1 higher, May 1.69¼ and soybeans were unchanged to 4½ higher, May 5.22.

MARRIAGES DISSOLVED

BLOOMFIELD—Dissolution of marriage decrees awarded during last week's session of Stoddard County Circuit Court included:

Carolyn Sue Polly and Ronald Carlton Polly, with Mrs. Polly receiving custody of two minor children and $10 per week for child support.

Thomas Leon Manuel and Nellie Irene Manuel, with Mrs. Manuel receiving custody of one minor child and Manuel receiving custody of another minor child.

Joyce Riddle and Fred Riddle Jr., with Mrs. Riddle receiving custody of one minor child and $30 per week for child support.

Willene McRoy and Earl McRoy.

Connie Deloris Sawyer and Daniel Tulle Sawyer, with Mrs. Sawyer receiving custody of one minor child and $75 per month for child support.

Helen Marie Carr and Robert Eldon Carr.

Deborah Colleen Schenck and William Gregg Schenck, with Mrs. Schenck receiving custody of one minor child and $20 per week for child support.

Gail Ellen Reeves and Sherman Lee Reeves, with Mrs. Reeves receiving custody of one minor child and $20 per week for child support.

CIRCUIT COURT

BLOOMFIELD — Sentencing for Rick and Cathy Boland was set for June 18, after they pleaded guilty Thursday to illegal sale and possession of a controlled substance. The case was tried in Stoddard County Circuit Court before Judge Flake McHaney on a change of venue from Cape Girardeau County.

Rick Boland was charged with two counts of illegal sale of a controlled substance and one count of possession of a controlled substance.

Both cases were referred to the Board of Probation and Parole for a presentencing report.

Gary Spencer was sentenced to 10 months in the county jail after pleading guilty to possession of marijuana, second offense. He was allowed credit for jail time, and the sentence is to run concurrently with a sentence imposed in Magistrate Court.

Bond was set at $5,000 for Lee Hudson of Dexter on a charge of committing acts of sodomy against a 17-year-old Puxico girl. Hudson waived formal arraignment and entered a plea of not guilty to the charge. Trial was set for July 17.

An application for change of judge was entered in the case of Robert Franklin Oakley, who is charged with second-degree murder. Judge Marshall Craig was designated as special judge and consented to hear the case.

James Howard was sentenced to one year in the county jail on count one of two counts of molesting a minor. He was placed on parole for two years without supervision on count two.

Trial was set on July 22 for Dennis Gott, 17, of Dexter, charged with armed robbery and felonious stealing. A motion to dismiss the stealing charge was filed by the defendant.

Sandra Kay Armstead of Dexter was placed on probation for two years after pleading guilty to grand theft. She was charged with stealing more than $50 from the home of State Rep. and Mrs. J. T. Howard of Dexter.

Ivan Mekan of Bernie, charged with burglary and stealing from the Adams store in the Powe community, was ordered sent to the Missouri State Hospital at Fulton for an examination to determine if he knows the wrongfulness of his act and if he is capable of assisting in his defense.

MARRIAGES DISSOLVED

BENTON — Eight dissolution of marriage decrees were granted recently by Judge Marshall Craig in Scott County Circuit Court.

Marriages ordered dissolved included:

Eugene Holland and Claudia May Holland.

Carolyn Kay Alexander and James Lee Alexander.

Edna Andrews and Leroy Andrews.

Shirley Ann Schaefer and Andrew Lawrence Schaefer.

Shirley J. Keegan and Paul Edward Keegan.

Lydia Ann Kidd and John Martin Kidd. Mrs. Kidd was awarded care and custody of children and Kidd is to pay her $25 per child per week and is to have reasonable visitation rights.

Teresa Kay Langley and Robert Claude Langley.

Alrea Jean Morgan and Russell Joseph Morganb.

AMERICANS LEAVE OPERA PRODUCTION IN POLAND

WARSAW (AP) — Mezzo-soprano Regina Resnik and impressionist painter Arbit Blatas were director and designer of a new production of Verdi's "Falstaff" for the National Opera of Poland.

At the premiere, Miss Resnik also sang the role of Mistress Quickly.

Future plans of Miss Resnik and Blatas include "The Queen of Spades" in Vancouver, "Mahagonney" in Lisbon and "Salome" in Monte Carlo. Their production of "Carmen" for the Hamburg State Opera in 1971 will be shown on TV March 3, the 100th anniversary of the world premiere of the opera.

4 arraigned for theft of rings

Two men and two women from Atlanta, Ga., were arraigned during Magistrate Court proceedings this morning in the Sikeston courtroom on charges of stealing 2 diamond rings Thursday from C. H. Yanson, Jewelry, 134 E. Front St.

The four are Reginald Williams, Johnny Walter Turner, Bernice Taylor and Dorothy Benjamin.

The four were arrested in Cairo, Ill., after one of them allegedly took the rings while store owner C. H. Yanson was distracted by the other three.

The diamond rings were recoverd.

Warrants reportedly may be issued by Mississippi against one or more of the defendants for a similar theft which occurred in that state.

The case was continued to May 20 to allow the defendants time to obtain attorneys. Bond was set at $3,000 each.

Suspended Sentences

Joseph Godwin, Route Two, was fined $100 and given a three-month suspended jail sentence and placed on two-year probation for improper parking. He had parked his automobile partially on Interstate 55, then had fallen asleep inside. He was intoxicated, according to the arresting officer.

Selvin Smith McKenney, Matthews Route One, $50 fine, six-month suspended sentence and two years on probation for driving while intoxicated.

Fines

Orland Dewain Bruce, Chaffee Route Two, driving while intoxicated, $150, and speeding, $100; Donna Medlock, 810 Gulf St., bogus check, $35.

Continued to May 20

Change of Venue

Mary Kage, 418 Coleman St., bogus check, change of venue to Mississippi County.

JEFFERSON ENCOURAGED INVENTION

WASHINGTON (AP) — Thomas Jefferson, first supervisor of the U.S. Patent Office when he was Secretary of State, was an inventor of note although he never applied for a patent.

Among his inventions was an improvement in the mold board of the plow, an important contribution to U.S. agricultural development. He also invented a folding chair or stool that could be used as a walking stick, and he developed many other ideas.

"Nobody wishes more than I do that ingenuity should receive liberal encouragement."

Award is made to teacher

LIBERTY — Gordon S. Griffin, biology and debate instructor at Charleston High School, was awarded the Missouri Academy of Science's outstanding science teacher award in Junior Academy of Science District 2.

Griffin, whose teaching career spans six years, was cited for "his enthusiasm as a teacher, counselor and community leader."

Since becoming a teacher, Griffin has taught more than 600 students and has developed a special program for independent study for honors students. He was named to the Outstanding Secondary Educators of America in 1974.

Griffin is one of four teachers honored at the annual meeting of the Missouri Academy of Science, a nonprofit organization dedicated to the advancement of science throughout Missouri.

Other outstanding teacher awards presented by the academy went to: Robert Dornfeld, Holman Junior High School, St. Ann; Fred A. Pitts, Carl Junction High School; and Mrs. C. Jan Alderson, Pittman Hills Junior High School, Raytown.

Sales is sentenced to three years

BENTON — Andrew Sales was sentenced Thursday to three years in custody of the State Department of Corrections on a charge of burglary and two years on a charge of stealing by Judge Marshall Craig in Scott County Circuit Court. The sentences were set to run consecutively.

Sales was found guilty by a jury on April 11 of breaking into Scott County Prosecuting Attorney Jim Moore's office on Aug. 23, 1974, and stealing a wrist watch, gun, adding machine, brief case and cash.

The trial in April was the second on the charges for Sales. The first trial took place on Jan. 27 and ended in a hung jury.

DISCARDED TIRES SERVE MANY PURPOSES

WASHINGTON (AP) — A study by the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency shows that paving roads with used tires is just one of the solutions to the waste disposal problem posed by the 200 million tire casings abandoned every year, reports the Tire Retread Information Bureau.

Tire casings can also be used to generate power and as artificial reefs, impact absorbers on highways and in retreaded tires.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Dear Mr. Blanton:

Thank you for a delightful musical evening with the United States Army Field Band and the wonderful chorus.

Kathryne Clark

The state of New York has been handing salt to Indians for 187 years. Under a treaty with the Onondagas in 1788, New York is obligated to give a bushel of salt every October to any member of the tribe who requests it. In return, New York received 15,000 acres of salt lands.

Two convicted of mail fraud

CAPE GIRARDEAU — A Bloomfield man and woman were found guilty Thursday by a U.S. District Court jury of willfully and knowingly devising a scheme to defraud through the use of the mails.

After receiving instructions from Judge John F. Nangle, who presided, the jury deliberated one and a half hours before turning the verdict of guilty against Anetha A. McClain, 58, on five counts as charged in a federal indictment and David Scott McClain, 23, on six counts as charged.

Judge Nangle set sentencing for 9:30 a.m. May 30 in federal court at St. Louis and ordered a presentence investigation and report.

The federal indictment, issued Jan. 23, charged that both defendants were known by other names: the woman as Mrs. Harold McClain, Mrs. David S. McClain, Mrs. Herald McClain and the Rev. A. McClain. The man also was known as Scott D. McClain, the indictment charged.

Richard F. Coughlin, an assistant U. S. attorney, asserted the pair had used the various names and made false statements on applications to obtain credit cards or accounts from several companies.

Coughlin contended the cards were then used to obtain items or service at a number of business firms, including restaurants, motels and service stations, with no intention of paying the bills.

The false and fraudulent information, the government charged, included in addition to various names, a number of addresses, occupations and salaries given on the applications for credit. It also was brought out that the defendants lived in St. Louis part of the time. The government contended the man went to another state at one time to avoid payment of bills and prosecution.

McClain testified that he had never married and the woman was his mother, with whom he resided. He said he had a fifth-grade education and could hardly read or write and the applications for credit were filled out by his sister, mother or father because he could not understand the questions. He claimed that in some cases he was denied the credit cards because he was too young and his parents had to obtain them for him.

The indictment charged the offenses occurred between April 10, 1972, and June 7, 1973.

"I fully intended to pay for everything I owed ... I didn't intend to beat anyone out of a dime," he said.

The defendant said he does remodeling and other types of construction work and thought he had jobs from which he would receive sufficient funds to pay the bills. But, he said, the floods of 1973 caused farmers to lose their crops and the farmers who were to hire him said they could not afford the work.

Mrs. McClain said she was an evangelist and nurse's aid, although the government contended that she had said she was a nurse on some of the applications. She said there were six members in her church and testimony brought out that four were members of her family. She contended that sometimes she had income of $700 per month from church offerings and other work.

A number of exhibits were entered by the government. Each defendant, when asked if writing such as signatures on the applications or bills was theirs, answered a number of timess, "It could be."

Defense attorneys contended that the defendants might be guilty of owing debts, but since she had only an eighth - grade education and he had a fifth-grade education, the McClains were incapable of devising such a scheme to defraud.

They also maintained that the defendants could be found by their creditors at the Bloomfield address and that they had returned some of the cards when their bills became high.

The defense also claimed the companies were guilty of encouraging persons to apply for credit, and further stated that the question as to whether the defendants were husband and wife or son and mother had nothing to do with the question of guilt on the charges.

The 10 witnesses for the government included representatives from the various companies involved and Harold D. Cross, a U. S. Postal Service inspector.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Dear Mr. Blanton:

Thank you for a delightful musical evening with the United States Army Field Band and the wonderful chorus.

Kathryne Clark

The state of New York has been handing salt to Indians for 187 years. Under a treaty with the Onondagas in 1788, New York is obligated to give a bushel of salt every October to any member of the tribe who requests it. In return, New York received 15,000 acres of salt lands.

Two convicted of mail fraud

CAPE GIRARDEAU — A Bloomfield man and woman were found guilty Thursday by a U.S. District Court jury of willfully and knowingly devising a scheme to defraud through the use of the mails.

After receiving instructions from Judge John F. Nangle, who presided, the jury deliberated one and a half hours before turning the verdict of guilty against Anetha A. McClain, 58, on five counts as charged in a federal indictment and David Scott McClain, 23, on six counts as charged.

Judge Nangle set sentencing for 9:30 a.m. May 30 in federal court at St. Louis and ordered a presentence investigation and report.

The federal indictment, issued Jan. 23, charged that both defendants were known by other names: the woman as Mrs. Harold McClain, Mrs. David S. McClain, Mrs. Herald McClain and the Rev. A. McClain. The man also was known as Scott D. McClain, the indictment charged.

Richard F. Coughlin, an assistant U. S. attorney, asserted the pair had used the various names and made false statements on applications to obtain credit cards or accounts from several companies.

Coughlin contended the cards were then used to obtain items or service at a number of business firms, including restaurants, motels and service stations, with no intention of paying the bills.

The false and fraudulent information, the government charged, included in addition to various names, a number of addresses, occupations and salaries given on the applications for credit. It also was brought out that the defendants lived in St. Louis part of the time. The government contended the man went to another state at one time to avoid payment of bills and prosecution.

McClain testified that he had never married and the woman was his mother, with whom he resided. He said he had a fifth-grade education and could hardly read or write and the applications for credit were filled out by his sister, mother or father because he could not understand the questions. He claimed that in some cases he was denied the credit cards because he was too young and his parents had to obtain them for him.

The indictment charged the offenses occurred between April 10, 1972, and June 7, 1973.

"I fully intended to pay for everything I owed ... I didn't intend to beat anyone out of a dime," he said.

The defendant said he does remodeling and other types of construction work and thought he had jobs from which he would receive sufficient funds to pay the bills. But, he said, the floods of 1973 caused farmers to lose their crops and the farmers who were to hire him said they could not afford the work.

Mrs. McClain said she was an evangelist and nurse's aid, although the government contended that she had said she was a nurse on some of the applications. She said there were six members in her church and testimony brought out that four were members of her family. She contended that sometimes she had income of $700 per month from church offerings and other work.

A number of exhibits were entered by the government. Each defendant, when asked if writing such as signatures on the applications or bills was theirs, answered a number of timess, "It could be."

Defense attorneys contended that the defendants might be guilty of owing debts, but since she had only an eighth - grade education and he had a fifth-grade education, the McClains were incapable of devising such a scheme to defraud.

They also maintained that the defendants could be found by their creditors at the Bloomfield address and that they had returned some of the cards when their bills became high.

The defense also claimed the companies were guilty of encouraging persons to apply for credit, and further stated that the question as to whether the defendants were husband and wife or son and mother had nothing to do with the question of guilt on the charges.

The 10 witnesses for the government included representatives from the various companies involved and Harold D. Cross, a U. S. Postal Service inspector.

David E. Moore

Deborah Joyce Griffin

Two top honorees from Matthews named

MATTHEWS — David E. Moore has been named valedictorian and Deborah Joyce Griffin has been designated salutatorian of the 1975 graduating class at Matthews High School.

Moore, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Moore, Route One, ahs received several academic awards during high school, including honors in geography, geometry, English III and current events.

He has been co-editor of the Buccaneer school yearbook and a member of the student council, Future Farmers of America, pep band and the high school band. He participated in both the junior and senior plays and has been selected to be included in Who's Who Among American High School Students.

In the fall, Moore plans to attend University of Missouri-Columbia and major in medicine.

Miss Griffin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Grady Griffin, Route One, has received departmental awards in algebra, shorthand, general business and history during her four years of high school.

She received the 1975 Betty Crocker award, won Optimist Club oratorical contests on both the zone and district levels and also was selected for inclusion in Who's Who Among American High School Students.

During high school, she has been a cheerleader, member of the student council for three years and secretary for one year, Future Homemakers of America officer for three years and member of the yearbook staff, choir and volleyball team. She also participated in the junior and senior plays.

Miss Griffin plans to enroll this fall at Southeast Missouri State University, where she will major in English.

Tires and wheels stolen

BENTON — Two tires and wheels were stolen Monday night off a pickup truck owned by Arvel Long of Benton Route One, according to a Scott County Sheriff's Department spokesman.

Long had accidentally driven the truck into a ditch, where he left it for the night laying on its side. When he returned this morning, he discovered that the top two tires and wheels were missing.

He reported the theft to the sheriff's department about 7:30 a.m.

Expanded night-work schedule is planned

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — The Missorui Senate will continue its expanded work schedule this week in an effort to clear a backlog of its own bills before turning to measures already approved by the House.

The House, also expanding its work schedule by adding two night meetings this week as the final month of the session nears, is expected to resume debate of a modified no-fault car insurance proposal.

Among the bills pending before the Senate is elimination of the controversial waiting week period before jobless workers can collect unemployment compensation benefits. When that measure came up last week, it received a somewhat cool reception.

The Senate's Appropriations Committee also hopes to conclude its scrutiny of the first three of eight bills covering expenditure of the state's $2 billion budget for next year and those initial funding bills could go to the floor.

The other five measures have gained tentative approval in the House but still face final passage before going to the Senate.

The no-fault program received several hours of work last week in the House, and although leaders feel it is an important measure that needs to be approved, the bill probably again will be bottled up in a Senate committee as it was a year ago. The Senate version of no-fault, sponsored by Insurance Committee Chairman Truman Wilson, D-St. Joseph, is still in that committee.

Head Start to celebrate 10th year

PORTAGEVILLE — The Delta Area Head Start Program, with 22 centers in six counties of Southeast Missouri, will join thousands of Head Start programs across the country in celebrating Head Start's 10th anniversary Wednesday, as part of National Head Start Day.

The event will honor the nationwide Head Start program for pre-school children from low-income families. Since its establishment in 1965,Head Start has provided comprehensive health, educational and social services to more than five million children and their families.

The 22 area centers include: Bell City, Dexter, Richland at Essex, Benton, Sikeston, Anniston, East Prairie, Pinhook, New Madrid, Canalou, Bernie, Lilbourn, Portagevile, North Pemiscot at Wardell, Hayti, Caruthersville, Southland at Cardwell, Caruth, Kennett, Holcomb, Campbell and Malden.

C. B. Huber, director of the Delta Area Head Start Program, said the establishment of a Head Start program in Southeast Missouri in 1965 has helped improve services for children and families in the community.

"When our program started, for example, we had no access to mental health sevices for the children. Now the area consultant, Dr. Richard B. Cravens, the regional diagnostic clinics in Sikeston and Poplar Bluff and the Kennett Mental Health Clinic are providing services to the Southeast Missouri children," Huber stated.

Project Head Start, launched by the U.S. Office of Economic Opportunity in 1965, is now administered by the Office of Child Deveopment in the Department of Health, Education and Welfare. Delta Area Economic Opportunity Corporation, headquartered in Portageville, is the local grantee.

Reviewing the program's accomplishments, National Head Start Director James L. Robinson recently said, "Head Start continues to be an innovative and experimental program. During the past decade, it has had a dramatic impact on services for children throughout the country -- and on the entire child development field.

"Head Start has pioneered such new concepts as parent involvement in planning educational programs and the employment of nonprofessional classroom aides. It continues to be the largest health care program for preschool children in the nation."

Over the past seven years, Head Start has launched a number of experimental programs, including parent and child centers for families with children under age 3, Home Start, a program using paraprofessional visitors who work parents and children in the home; and the child and family resource program, which makes child development services available to children from the prenatal period through age 8.

"We're encouraging local Head Start programs to use these new experimental approaches," Robinson said "to meet the varied needs of communities and of individual children and their families."

Film downgrades American roll

By RONALD REAGAN

Copley News Service

In 1935, a gifted German woman, Leni Riefenstahl, created a documentary-style movie, "Triumph of the Will." It was brilliantly executed, but chilling as a portent of Nazi totalitarian power. Its purpose: propaganda, to glorify the Nazi cause.

In 1975 American theaters are showing a movie created by two gifted young film makers, Bert Schneider and Peter Davis: "Hearts and Minds." It, too, is in documentary style and is brilliantly executed and chilling.

Its purpose: propaganda, to show that Americans are simpleminded, jingoistic sadists and that the North Vietnamese conquerors of South Vietnam are high-minded patriots.

The microphone and the eye of the camera don't lie, of course. They record words and actions as they happened. But in "Hearts and Minds," careful editing and reassembly of bits of film out of context produce a devastating effect.

As in all wars -- indeed all human activities -- some participants in Vietnam said and did noble things; some, ignoble things; others, shallow things. Messrs. Schneider and Davis prefer the Big Lie technique, justaposing bits of the truth in such a way as to distort the point to their ends.

For example, Gen. William C. Westmoreland makes an observation about the fundamentally different view of human life that prevails in the Orient. He commented about "the cheapness of life" there. The next shot selected was of Vietnamese mourning their dead. You get the idea.

We see the agonies of war, but no hint that any South Vietnamese really cared about the preservation of his nation against the invaders from the North. It is strictly a matter of the liberty-loving North Vietnamese and Viet Cong, versus Bloodthirsty America. Apparently, Schneider and Davis haven't studied much Indochina history.

Despite it's heavy propaganda message, "Hearts and Minds" has been greeted by several major film critics with panegyrics.

Whether these were inspired by the obvious technical skills of the film makers, by philosophical compatibility or simply by herd instinct one can only guess.

Now comes the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences, dispensers of the Oscars, and an organization which has been taking its lumps in recent years. For example:

George C. Scott refused an Oscar for his superb title role portrayal in "Patton." Marlon Brando sent a bogus Indian princess to collect his Oscar and deliver a lecture in sociology.

A nude streaker jogged by the television cameras, and this year Dustin Hoffman announced he'd watch the proceedings on television, saying that the Hollywood celebrities in the live audience would be so heavily sedated with drink as to make nothing but spectacles of themselves.

The academy isn't known for either its political sagacity or its penetrating understanding of world affairs, but that didn't deter them from selecting "Hearts and Minds" as the year's best "documentary" film. As if this high praise wasn't enough for a film that is, in effect, propaganda for the Vietnamese Communists, Schneider said, "Isn't it ironic that our film wins this award just as Vietnam is about to be liberated?" He then read a telegram of "greetings" from a Viet Cong official. The audience cheered. Maybe Dustin Hoffman was right.

Our leaders made a grave mistake in sending American soldiers to a war they were not allowed to win. Any cause worth dying for is worth winning. Still, hundreds of thousands of young men went in the hope that what they were doing would save a small nation from its invaders. They are worthy of more than the oversimplification and distortions of Schneider and Davis.

Josef Goebbels was fond of saying that if you told a big enough lie often enough, people would believe it. He proved it in World War II Germany. I think Americans are more sophisticated and know one when they see one. Let us hope so if they go to see "Hearts and Minds."

Head Start to celebrate 10th year

PORTAGEVILLE — The Delta Area Head Start Program, with 22 centers in six counties of Southeast Missouri, will join thousands of Head Start programs across the country in celebrating Head Start's 10th anniversary Wednesday, as part of National Head Start Day.

The event will honor the nationwide Head Start program for pre-school children from low-income families. Since its establishment in 1965,Head Start has provided comprehensive health, educational and social services to more than five million children and their families.

C. B. Huber, director of the Delta Area Head Start Program, said the establishment of a Head Start program in Southeast Missouri in 1965 has helped improve services for children and families in the community.

"When our program started, for example, we had no access to mental health sevices for the children. Now the area consultant, Dr. Richard B. Cravens, the regional diagnostic clinics in Sikeston and Poplar Bluff and the Kennett Mental Health Clinic are providing services to the Southeast Missouri children," Huber stated.

Project Head Start, launched by the U.S. Office of Economic Opportunity in 1965, is now administered by the Office of Child Deveopment in the Department of Health, Education and Welfare. Delta Area Economic Opportunity Corporation, headquartered in Portageville, is the local grantee.

Reviewing the program's accomplishments, National Head Start Director James L. Robinson recently said, "Head Start continues to be an innovative and experimental program. During the past decade, it has had a dramatic impact on services for children throughout the country -- and on the entire child development field.

"Head Start has pioneered such new concepts as parent involvement in planning educational programs and the employment of nonprofessional classroom aides. It continues to be the largest health care program for preschool children in the nation."

Over the past seven years, Head Start has launched a number of experimental programs, including parent and child centers for families with children under age 3, Home Start, a program using paraprofessional visitors who work parents and children in the home; and the child and family resource program, which makes child development services available to children from the prenatal period through age 8.

"We're encouraging local Head Start programs to use these new experimental approaches," Robinson said "to meet the varied needs of communities and of individual children and their families."

Film downgrades American roll

By RONALD REAGAN

Copley News Service

In 1935, a gifted German woman, Leni Riefenstahl, created a documentary-style movie, "Triumph of the Will." It was brilliantly executed, but chilling as a portent of Nazi totalitarian power. Its purpose: propaganda, to glorify the Nazi cause.

In 1975 American theaters are showing a movie created by two gifted young film makers, Bert Schneider and Peter Davis: "Hearts and Minds." It, too, is in documentary style and is brilliantly executed and chilling.

Its purpose: propaganda, to show that Americans are simpleminded, jingoistic sadists and that the North Vietnamese conquerors of South Vietnam are high-minded patriots.

The microphone and the eye of the camera don't lie, of course. They record words and actions as they happened. But in "Hearts and Minds," careful editing and reassembly of bits of film out of context produce a devastating effect.

As in all wars -- indeed all human activities -- some participants in Vietnam said and did noble things; some, ignoble things; others, shallow things. Messrs. Schneider and Davis prefer the Big Lie technique, justaposing bits of the truth in such a way as to distort the point to their ends.

For example, Gen. William C. Westmoreland makes an observation about the fundamentally different view of human life that prevails in the Orient. He commented about "the cheapness of life" there. The next shot selected was of Vietnamese mourning their dead. You get the idea.

We see the agonies of war, but no hint that any South Vietnamese really cared about the preservation of his nation against the invaders from the North. It is strictly a matter of the liberty-loving North Vietnamese and Viet Cong, versus Bloodthirsty America. Apparently, Schneider and Davis haven't studied much Indochina history.

Despite it's heavy propaganda message, "Hearts and Minds" has been greeted by several major film critics with panegyrics.

Whether these were inspired by the obvious technical skills of the film makers, by philosophical compatibility or simply by herd instinct one can only guess.

Now comes the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences, dispensers of the Oscars, and an organization which has been taking its lumps in recent years. For example:

George C. Scott refused an Oscar for his superb title role portrayal in "Patton." Marlon Brando sent a bogus Indian princess to collect his Oscar and deliver a lecture in sociology.

A nude streaker jogged by the television cameras, and this year Dustin Hoffman announced he'd watch the proceedings on television, saying that the Hollywood celebrities in the live audience would be so heavily sedated with drink as to make nothing but spectacles of themselves.

The academy isn't known for either its political sagacity or its penetrating understanding of world affairs, but that didn't deter them from selecting "Hearts and Minds" as the year's best "documentary" film. As if this high praise wasn't enough for a film that is, in effect, propaganda for the Vietnamese Communists, Schneider said, "Isn't it ironic that our film wins this award just as Vietnam is about to be liberated?" He then read a telegram of "greetings" from a Viet Cong official. The audience cheered. Maybe Dustin Hoffman was right.

Our leaders made a grave mistake in sending American soldiers to a war they were not allowed to win. Any cause worth dying for is worth winning. Still, hundreds of thousands of young men went in the hope that what they were doing would save a small nation from its invaders. They are worthy of more than the oversimplification and distortions of Schneider and Davis.

Josef Goebbels was fond of saying that if you told a big enough lie often enough, people would believe it. He proved it in World War II Germany. I think Americans are more sophisticated and know one when they see one. Let us hope so if they go to see "Hearts and Minds."
